For 52 More Planes, Much Thanks.

The Mothers Return.

North Pole Submarine.

Morrow Not Spending.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

GOOD NEWS ANNOUNCES Navy contracts for 52 fighting planes, torpedo and bombing airboats. They will cost, for the 52 ships, $3,900,177.

For the price of one modern battleship, with coalers and other equipment, the Navy could buy 1,040 such fighting planes. Altogether they would require crews smaller than one battleship crew and would cost far less in upkeep than one battleship.

And one such bombing plane could sink any battleship or other ship afloat.

This nation needs at the least an air fleet of 5,000 fighting planes, with an adequate fleet under water.

PESHAWAR IS A LONG WAY from Buckingham Palace, and once it would have been painful, slow work, subduing natives in those far-off valleys.

But now, the dull thud of exploding Royal Air Force bombs is heard in the hiding places of Haji and his Mohammedan tribesmen, rebelling against Britain. And Haji's forces are melting away.

IF BOMBING PLANES can hunt out scattered tribesmen in far-off mountain and valleys, what would such planes, with bombs and poison gas, do in great cities, where millions of men and billions of money are packed close together, offering such easy marks.

What a surprise for some of us, if suddenly, some foreign powers should decide to treat one of our great cities as Britain is treating the fierce Mohammedan tribes and gentle Hindus.

It could be done. We are not protected against it.

THE FIRST FARTY of 127 Gold Star Mothers, having seen the graves of their dead sons, are on their way home.

They were too early for the poppies, about which pretty war poems were written, but they saw the white crosses, row on row, each marking the grave of a dead American soldier.

THE MOVEMENT that sends them abroad to visit graves should reserve to itself the right to send other young Americans abroad to be killed.

It should not leave that question to the discretion of any League of Nations, or World Court.

AND IT SHOULD DECIDE for itself what defense, ships, airplanes, submarines this nation needs, and not leave that question to Britian and Japan. That has been recently done, ignoring the advice and warnings of our highest naval officers, in deference to the wishes of Anglo-maniacs in office and financiers engaged in international transactions.

PRESIDENT HOOVER and the Navy Department are to be congratulated on the decision to allow our submarine O-12 to take part in Sir Hubert Wilkins' work of exploration in the Arctic.

Eventfully, our fleet of submarines will be made useful, in peace, through exploration of the oceans, seas, lakes and land under them.

And the future will see submarine prospectors searching for mines and oil wells below the water, competing with modern prospectors now searching for treasure and oil for nations by airplanes.

THOSE THAT SHOULD KNOW report Dwight Morrow is not spending any money "worth while" in his senatorial campaign. And those that should know are disgusted. They are politicians, convinced that an ambitious rich man, whatever his personal fitness, should buy his Senate seat.

The other candidate, it is said, is spending most satisfactorily.

If Mr. Morrow should be elected, it would show that a man can carry New Jersey without "taking care" of the practical politicians.

ALFRED P. SLOAN, Jr., president of General Motors, protests against passage of the new tariff bill, warning the country that its passage would injure American prosperity.

This country is not interested merely in collecting duties on imported goods. It is vitally interested in developing the export of goods made here.

We cannot consume all that we produce. And to keep our men at work we must keep foreign nations buying from us. They cannot do that if we shut ourselves inside a high tariff wall, and shut them out.

NATIONAL GRAND OPERA, via the radio and on a scale of expenditure unknown hitherto, is coming.

What cast would you select, from artists dead and living, if you had as impressario miraculous power? Patti and the two Dereszkes, in their prime, for Maguerite, Mephisto and Faust? This writer heard the three in those roles at the Grand Opera House in Paris, with Gounod

CROWDS SEE RAILROAD DRY RAID

Liquor With Bootleg Value Of $45,000 Confiscated Near McKeesport Station

Four thousand quarts of whisky, consigned as a shipment of fertilizer, were seized today by federal prohibition agents in a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad freight car near the McKeesport station.

The liquor was in half-cases and was covered by sacks of fertilizer. It has a retail bootleg value of about $45,000, according to the agents.

WHEELING GIRL VANISHES

BOSTON, May 31.—(INS.)—Search was under way here and in Washington today for Miss Katherine Mitchell, 19, student at the exclusive Lothrop school in Groton, who has mysteriously vanished, according to a report made to police by her father, Baird Mitchell, of Wheeling, W. Va.

Over the long distance telephone, Mitchell told police that he received a telegram from his daughter on Thursday, stating that she was taking the Federal express to Washington. Puzzled, Mitchell investigated and learned from the national capital that she could not be found.

Louis Swift, Jr., And Wife Parted

DENVER, May 31.—(AP.)—Louis F. Swift, Jr., son of the millionaire Chicago packer, has taken quarters in the Denver Athletic Club, while Mrs. Swift is living at their suburban home, near here. Friends surmised that a rift had occurred between the pair, and a story of the separation printed by a Denver newspaper was not denied.

Swift is manager of the Denver branch of Swift & Co. Mrs. Swift formerly was Mrs. Mary Haymaker Bennett, divorced wife of Frank Bennett, of New York.

Fliers Set for Race And Aerial Circus

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(INS.)—Barring a repetition of last Saturday's squall, the Curtiss marine trophy race will be flown at the Anacosta Naval Air Station this afternoon, and Navy and Marine Corps pilots will stage an aerial circus.

The program, which was interrupted last Saturday when a storm broke, causing postponement of the Curtiss trophy race, will be carried out except for the review of planes from the battlefleet.

Pinchot Assails Ballot Thieves, Lauds M'Govern

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—(AP.)—Gifford Pinchot in a letter to all county chairmen of Pinchot-for-Governor committees today declared:

"The Republicans of Pennsylvania have chosen their nominees, but the big special interests behind a few disgruntled elements in the party are refusing to accept the decision."

Official returns from the recent primary show that Pinchot has a lead of more than 15,000 over Francis Shunk Brown for the nomination for governor. The official count has been completed in all but four counties of the state. The Pinchot letter read:

"The electric, gas, trolley and other public utility interests throughout Pennsylvania, the contractor-bosses and the bootleggers, acting through the political gangs they control, are attempting to steal the governorship.

"Both before and since the primary, determined attempts to defy the will of the Republican voters and reverse the verdict have been going on. They are still going on, and it still requires the utmost efforts of

MOB'S VICTIM SHOT, STABBED

CHICKASHA, Okla., May 31.—(AP.)—Evading a guard of National Guardsmen called to protect Henry Argo, Negro, alleged attacker of a white woman, a member of an angry mob early today probably fatally shot the prisoner, after either gaining entrance to the Grady County jail or climbing a tree and firing through a prison window.

While he Negro lay dying, G. W. Skinner, husband of the woman he is alleged to have attacked, entered the morgue and stabbed the wounded man. The victim still lived after the stabbing.

Skinner was arrested and held by officers. Three others, alleged members of the mob, also were arrested in connection with the disorders. Six National Guardsmen and several citizens were injured, some seriously.

The shooting came as a climax to an all-night reign of terror when several attempts were made by hundreds of men and boys to gain entrance to the jail after the door was battered down with rams.

Guardsmen set up machine guns and tear gas also was used against the rioters by the guardsmen, who were said to have fired their rifles and machine guns into the air.

JONES WINS GOLF TITLE IN BRITAIN

BULLETIN.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 31.—Bobby Jones, greatest of golfers, today won the British amateur championship by defeating Roger Wethered, British ace, in the 36-hole final of the tournament here. Jones won by 7 up and 6 to play.

Today's triumph gave Jones the only major golf title which he never previously had annexed. He at present holds in the U. S. open title, and is a former American amateur and British open titleholder.

By F. A. WRAY,
International News Service.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 31.—While an unruly gallery numbering thousands milled around the fairways and swarmed over the greens, Bobby Jones, U. S. open champion, fought in grim silence to protect the four-hole lead which he obtained by shooting sub-par golf in the morning and finished the twenty-second hole 4 up on Roger Wethered, British ace, in the last half of their 72-hole match for the British amateur championship this afternoon.

Wethered reduced Jones' lead to 3 up on the nineteenth hole when he laid Bobby a stymie and won the hole, but Jones won the twentieth when Wethered took three putts, and the twenty-first and twenty-second holes were halved.

Long before time for the play to be resumed after luncheon the narrow streets of St. Andrews were crowded with people making for the links. Itinerant bagpipers entertained the crowds before the start. Many people remained at their vantage points around the first green throughout

Parachutes Fail, Stunt Flier Killed

MT. VERNON, Ill., May 31.—(INS.)—An inquest was scheduled today into the death of Ray Mahan, killed yesterday when three parachutes failed to open after he leaped from his airplane at 2,500 feet.

Mahan planned to cut loose from one chute, fall 1,000 feet and then open another. Instead neither parachute would open and the third became tangled in the other two. About 2,000 persons witnessed the plunge.

Senator Jones Yields Late to People's Will

Senator Wesley Jones, of Seattle, Wash., author of the "five-and-ten" law, who recently denounced demands for modification of the dry law, is a candidate for re-election on an anti-dry platform, according to the Seattle Star.

The Star says:

Rather late in his political life Senator Wesley Jones—with both ears firmly to the ground—decides to vote as "his people" want him to vote on prohibition.

This noble decision follows a denunciation of dry law enforcement and a demand for modification by the state Republican convention; and the indictment of Jones' appointees by a Seattle grand jury.

The Senator agreeing to comply with the wishes of a majority of people, at once gets in wrong with all the drys, who do not want him to vote that way at all.

He incurs the enmity of Czar B. N. Hicks, who is going to run out of the state anyone who won't vote for more enforcement, regardless of the public will.

As we say, it seems rather late in the day for the Senator to start paying attention to the people's wishes. He paid no attention to these wishes when he voted for Lorimer; or when he voted for Newberry; or when he was popularly known as "Wesley Mileage-Grab Jones" or when he voted to seat Judge Parker on the Supreme Bench.

He paid no attention to them when he jammed through his infamous "five-and-ten" law, a crude attempt at a return to medievalism that has proved unworkable and utterly at variance with public sentiment.

Jones' last-minute repentance fools nobody; it is, so apparently, a bid for future votes, instead of a sincere desire to serve his constituency.

HOOVER URGES MODERATION

By JOHN P. COWAN,
Staff Correspondent.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., May 31.—President Hoover, making his pilgrimage to Gettysburg battlefield as leader in the nation's homage to its warrior dead, pleaded for a continuance of that spiritual solidarity which, he declared, has created a great people, and urged moderation in meeting the vital issues of the day.

Lincoln, he said, in eulogizing the Civil War President, set an example for the nation in the calm and temperate way he viewed the problems of his era, and his insistence they be solved "with malice toward none."

His speech was the shortest delivered here by any president since Lincoln made his famous address. He held a reception for the few survivors who had fought on this

BALTIMORE, May 31.—(AP.)—Charles Boon, 57, Negro, could not determine whether the little package his son found in the road was a bon bon or a torpedo.

He put it into his mouth and chewed it vigorously to find out. It turned out to be a torpedo. Boon said he knows it was not a torpedo because bon bons never explode like that.

SAILORS HURT BRINGING GRAF TO EARTH

Ship Battles Worst Squall Of Career on Dash North; Cancels Stop at Havana

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service.

LAKEHURST, N. J., May 31.—Escorted by two dirigibles and five airplanes, the Graf Zeppelin, monarch of the air, landed at the Lakehurst Naval Air Station field at 7:25 o'clock this morning, completing the fifth lap of its tri-continental flight from Friedrichshafen, Germany, via South America.

Cheers from about 1,000 spectators greeted the German dirigible as she swooped gracefully across the field from the south and made a graceful landing. She presented a pretty picture as she nosed in proudly, her silvery sides gleaming in the bright morning sunlight.

The dirigibles that escorted the Graf Zeppelin into Lakehurst were the Los Angeles, which left the hangar here early today, and the Vigilante, which had been quartered at the government proving ground at Aberdeen, Md.

DIRIGIBLES ESCORT ZEP

At 7:20 the Graf Zeppelin, her motors humming rhythmically, lowered her blunt nose and swooped down across the field. Passengers could be seen looking from the windows of her cabin.

From over a stretch of pine trees miles away the Graf Zeppelin headed straight for the landing field here. Five airplanes hovered over her. She was less than five miles from the hangar.

A slight accident marred the landing of the Graf. Immediately the dirigible came to rest on the field, several hundred yards from the hangar, the ground crew of 200 marines rushed forward to assist in the landing. They were followed by a throng of spectators.

MARINES DROPPED

Ropes were dropped from the dirigible. In pulling the big ship into line preparatory to pushing her into the hangar, about 15 marines, hanging from the ropes, were hoisted 20 feet into the air when a gust of wind lifted a free swinging section of the dirigible. As their hands became tired they dropped like monkeys from the branches of a tree.

One man was perhaps seriously injured and several others sustained minor bruises. The injured man was carried to an automobile. He said his name was Kinery, an assistant carpenter's mate.

QUIZ PASSENGERS

At 8:30 the passengers disembarked and were taken to the Welfare Building to be questioned by the customs authorities.

Commander Hugo Eckener was escorted to the press headquarters in the hangar, where he was interviewed by 100 or more reporters. He was attired in a blue uniform and blue cap with a gold insignia upon it. He did not appear at all fatigued. He smoked a cigaret as he gave his answers through an interpreter.

He said the squall the Graf Zeppelin went through last night, between Bermuda and the Atlantic coast north of Florida, was the worst the Graf Zeppelin had ever encountered. It was even worse than the storm on a previous trans-Atlantic voyage which tore a fin off the ship's side.

BIDS FAREWELL

Eckener declared the Graf Zeppelin had so far traveled on its present trip 13,400 sea miles, or

'GOOD WILL AIR TOUR' STARTS SECOND HOP OF FLIGHT

FLY TOWARD MEADVILLE FOR LUNCH

Sixteen Out of 23 Original Starters Still in Air; Fight Storms to Port Erie

By AL GOUGH,
Sun-Telegraph Aviation Editor.

ERIE, May 31. — Pennsylvania's first "Good Will Air Tour," which got under way from Rodgers Field, Pittsburgh, yesterday afternoon, despite cloudy skies and prospects of "thick" weather, was going strong today with 16 out of the 23 original starters still in the air, headed towards Meadville for lunch.

A low ceiling between Butler and Erie yesterday afternoon sent some of the more timid aeronauts scurrying to nearby fields until the black clouds scudded by.

A Whirlwind-powered Stearman biplane set a fast pace from the Pittsburgh-Butler Airport to Port Erie.

GIRL ARRIVES FIRST

Miss Vamos, with nearly 20 hours solo time to her credit, raced into Erie fully 10 minutes ahead of the other ships.

George Chapline, pilot of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation service ship, a Stinson Junior, was next in with half a dozen or more others close behind. The air tourists presented an impressive spectacle, and a crowd of 25,000 spectators who witnessed their arrival, were well rewarded for the long wait on the sidelines of Port Erie.

The flight over from Butler provided several bits of excitement for the air tourists. On one occasion three ships, J. P. Jones' Ryan, from the Lancaster-Bethlehem Airways; Chapline's Wright-powered Stinson, and Bob Dake's Wright-powered open travelair—engaged in an impromtu race. They ran full tilt into a rain squall which swallowed them from each other's sight for several minutes. When they emerged in the sunshine Chapline was well ahead of the others with the Ryan and Travelair still neck and neck.

STUDENTS FORCED DOWN

Another interesting little sidelight was provided by the four Curtiss-Wright students. All of the other ships but two had arrived at Port Erie and a checkup showed the students still missing. Fear was expressed for their safety, but needlessly, for word soon arrived that they were all at Meadville. They had seen the impending squall ahead and displayed rare judgment in hunting a safe place to "sit down" while the dark clouds moved over.

The roster of ships at Port Erie last night included the following: Wright Aeronautical Corporation service plane, Stinson, George Chapline, pilot; Airport Development and Construction Company and Detroit Steel Products Company, Stearman, Arthur Sowdon, pilot; Lancaster-Bethlehem Airways, Ryan, J. P. Jones, pilot; Stinson factory ship, powered by Lycoming, J. D. Kelly, pilot; Curtiss-Wright Flying Service, four student planes—Gipsy, Moth, Ox 5, Robin.

Commandaire Warner, and Travelair: United States Army Pt-1, Lieut. Samuel Eaton, pilot; Pennsylvania National Guard Observation, Lieut. Jack Nasif, pilot; Standard Oil Company, of Pennsylvania, Challenger Robbin, John Vickers, pilot.

Pittsburgh Airways Travelair, Bob Dake, pilot; Altoona Aircraft, Fairchild K. R. 21, J. Russell Hosterman, pilot; Monosport Scarab, Tony Little, pilot; Ludington Flying Service, Challenger Robin, Bob Hewitt, pilot; Dawson-Babcock Aircraft Barling NB 3, R. F. Dawson, pilot.

OTHER SHIP EXPECTED

Several additional ships were expected to join the tour today in the flight to Meadville and Greenville, with another detachment expected to follow through from Greenville Sunday.

By Sunday night managers of the tour predict, between 40 and 50 ships will be in line to continue the trip across the state into Wilkes-Barre, Reading, Allentown and Philadelphia and back across the mountains through Lancaster, Harrisburg, Everett, Johnstown and Greensburg to Pittsburgh. The tour will end a week from today at Bettis Field.

BRITISH TITLE WON BY JONES

the recess, spreading their luncheons on the grass.

BRITON PRAISES BOBBY

Wethered paid tribute to Jones' championship brand of golf after the first 18 holes.

"Bobby shot his usual superlative figures this morning. I couldn't," Wethered said in summing up the morning round of play.

Making the turn of their morning round all-square, Jones stepped out in brilliant form on the homeward journey to take a commanding four-hole lead in the match.

Playing with machine-like precision, except for occasional lapses with his putter, the Atlantan won on the tenth, thirteenth, fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth holes, giving him a lead of 5 up on Wethered.

He dropped the seventeenth to the Briton, however, and halved the eighteenth, to complete the course in 71, two strokes under par and five strokes under the number taken by Wethered.

The cards for the morning round:

Jones—
Out.. 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 3 4—35
In.. 4 3 4 4 4 4 4 5 4—36—71

Wethered—
Out.. 4 4 5 4 4 3 4 3 4—35
In... 5 3 4 5 5 5 6 4 4—41—76

Pilot and Student Killed by Crash

OHIO CONVICT SLAIN IN RIOT

LONDON, O., May 31.—(INS.)—Quiet had been restored today in the London state prison farm cell block here where guards yesterday shot a convict to death when 47 inmates attempted to escape.

Sam Mazello was the convict shot to death when the mutinying prisoners refused to obey the guards' commands to be quiet. He was shot in the head and body. When Mazello fell the other convicts returned to their cells and became quiet.

Mazello and the other 46 inmates of the cell block were brought here following the fire in Ohio State Penitentiary which took the lives of 320 convicts.

PINCHOT RAPS VOTE THIEVES

the Pinchot organization to prevent the election, which has been won at the ballot box, from being stolen in the count.

"50,000 VOTES STOLEN"

"In Philadelphia no one familiar with the facts doubts that at least 50,000 votes were stolen by election thieves from the Pinchot column. In 75 voting divisions not a single vote was reported for Pinchot. In one division every candidate on the Brown ticket was given exactly 212 votes, every candidate opposed to the machine was given exactly no votes at all, which is obviously impossible.

"In Lackawanna County men familiar with the facts estimate that not less than 10,000 votes were stolen. The division in Archbold, the vote reported, was 565 for Brown, 36 for Pinchot and 20 for Phillips, or a total of 621. But the voting list showed only 142 were entitled to vote.

"In a division in Dickson City the total number entitled to vote was 147. The vote reported showed 620 for Brown and 19 for Pinchot.

'In Archbald, in the heart of the coal mining region, where the miners were intensely friendly to Pinchot, the vote of the borough showed 2,832 for Brown against 388 for Pinchot. Every one of the seven election boards in Archbald failed to send in the voters' check list and the ballot check list.

BALLOTS BURNED

"In Olyphant the columns for governor and senator on the Republican ballots in one division had been burned out, and and so on.

"In Allegheny County most determined efforts to steal the election were only defeated by the extraordinary courage, tenacity and endurance of County Commissioner McGovern, who stayed on watch in the county commissioners' office for five consecutive days with only four hours' sleep. Thereby he made impossible the customary method of stealing votes in that county, which consists of changing the return sheets in the county commissioners' office. As a result the official count is increasing the Pinchot vote.

MEMORIAL DAY SPEAKERS HIT LEAGUE COURT

Universal Service.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 31.—Two smashing blows were delivered against the league court and entangling alliances in Memeorial Day addresses in Seattle.

One was by Charles P. Moriarty, former Superior Court judge, former assistant United States attorney and an outstanding Republican leader of Washington.

The other was by Ralph Horr, King County's G. O. P. county chairman, who started the fight for dry modification and anti-league court planks adopted at the Republican state convention at Bellingham last Saturday.

'BARTERING SOVEREIGNTY'

Chief points in Moriarty's speech, made as the principal address at the city's biggest Memorial Day services, at Washelli Veterans' Cemetery, were:

1. "The ideals of America and the sovereignty of this nation are too dear to our hearts and too sacred to our posterity to be bartered away by any method, no matter how honorable, or high sounding its designation."

2. "By joining the World Court, the United States would have but one vote with such countries as Esthonia, Luxemburg, Costa Rica and Salvador."

3. "We have rejected the League of Nations because we feared European entanglements, and the people of the United States have generally accorded with the actions of our leaders."

FOREIGN FABRICATION

High lights in Horr's speech, the main address in the American Legion memorial services at Kent, were:

1. "The World Court is a foreign fabrication, created, controlled and dominated by foreign countries."

2. "Do we gain in national prestige or national dignity by permitting all the rest of the world to interfere in American affairs?"

3. "We have lived as a nation for almost a century and a half, and the necessity for foreign participation has not been manifest. When did the need become so urgent?"

4. "Would the league have permitted our independence from England? Could we have annexed Texas? Would the court have approved our emancipation of Cuba?"

LEGION CHIEF HITS PACT

CURTIS, Neb., May 31.—The bitter opposition which the American Legion of Nebraska entertains toward the London naval treaty was expressed in a Memorial Day address here by Col. R. C. Douglas, former state Senator and head of the Legion relief bureau.

Col. Douglas ridiculed the efforts to attain an equitable parity of warships, declaring:

"Any attempt at naval parity, under conditions as they are, is a chase for a phantom.

"India is in rebellion—China flaming with war—Italian and French hostility so thinly disguised it is little wonder they could not agree on the naval limitations treaty—Russia with more than 1,000,000 under arms, with an objective of 3,000,000 and unconcealed commitments to world revolution.

"In the world today there are 30,000,000 men under arms—10,000,000 more than at the outbreak of the World War in 1914."

Col. Douglas pleaded for adequate American preparedness, calling it simply a proposition of carrying "war insurance."

He continued:

"The document now in the hands of Congress, purporting to be a naval treaty, is absolutely without teeth. Only three of the five nations in the conference have agreed to abide by its terms. It leaves America defenseless.

"Naval parity comes high when it costs this country honest-to-goodness ships, while it costs the other fellows nothing but the erasing of a few pencil marks."

Zep Lands at Lakehurst After Battle With Squall

15,077 land miles. Distance was negotiated in 204½ hours.

The leg of the flight just completed from Pernambuco to Lakehurst is 3,200 sea miles, he said. The Graf still had 30 hours of fuel on board when she landed here. If the ship had been taken to Havana, as originally planned, the probabilities were, he asserted that she would have had to buck severe head winds and it would be a question whether the supply of fuel would last.

Weather conditions between Pernambuco and New York were "about the average." The weather between Pernambuco and Bermuda was "o. k." but north of Bermuda conditions were "very bad." None of the passengers however was seasick at any time during the journey from Friedrichshafen. He thought it was "remarkable" how the ship rode the heavy squalls between Bermuda and the Atlantic coast just north of Florida.

Eckener paid tribute to the new portable mooring mast which had been used in mooring his ship at Lakehurst, and then, with a wave of his hand and a hearty "Auf Wiedersehen" he was off to join his passengers.

From Lakehurst the Graf will fly back to Friedrichshafen, making one stop at Seville.

ABOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN, EN ROUTE TO LAKEHURST, May 31.—With the dawn, Lakehurst lay straight ahead. All night the Graf crawled slowly up the North Atlantic coast off the Virginia Capes, cutting down speed in favorable areas, and at times being forced to fight headwinds to maintain that low speed.

When Cape Henry, from which Lakehurst lies only 140 nautical miles to the north, was passed, nothing stood between us and our record flight of less than 70 hours. A New York visit and a landing at the U. S. Naval Air Station could easily be accomplished before 6 a. m., Pittsburgh time, Dr. Eckener said. Nevertheless, there was the prospect that we would wait until an hour later.

The Graf could afford to loaf along at cut-down speed when off the Capes, because of the tremendous speed which had been made early yesterday.

SPEEDS IN SQUALL

With favorable winds, the Graf in a tremendous burst of speed raced along, occasionally passing 100 knots an hour. If that speed had been maintained, we would have been over New York at 1 a. m. At 7:40 last night we were only 190 nautical miles due east of Cape Hatteras.

To show just how that south southwest squall helped us—it early became a 50-mile gale, and we ran before its outrunners—less than an hour later, we were only 370 nautical miles from New York. At that time, Dr. Eckener asked a report of the weather near Lakehurst and New York.

The squall also shook the Graf up so much that it reminded the passengers of the bumpy day before we reached Rio de Janeiro when we rolled down from Recife.

Off Cape Henry, about 11 o'clock last night, we bucked hard north by northwest winds, which prevented us from making too great speed, and held back out arrival at Lakehurst by some hours.

STORM GIVES THRILL

The last hours of the great 13,000-mile flight from Germany gave the passengers aboard the Graf a new storm thrill. From 6 o'clock Friday afternoon the Zeppelin was for hours rocked and shaken by strong winds.

Just as our dinner was finished, about 9:30, we ran into a fierce gale. It was accompanied by a tremendous downpour of rain and an extraordinarily sudden and intensively strong shift of the wind from south to north.

Caught in a vertical current as the wind veered about, the Graf was carried nearly 600 feet higher into the air like a rocket and then just as suddenly started downward like an arrow. In a surprisingly short time the ship had bored through the turbulent storm front, but after that time we continued to buck a 40-mile head wind that threatened to hold us back so that it might be impossible to reach New York before six in the morning.

At 9:10 p. m. we were 200 nautical miles from Lakehurst, off Cape Henry.

At 9:30 Dr. Eckener came into the salon where the passengers were gathered and spent some time chatting with us. He appears to be proud of the speed record we made during the favorable hours of this trip northward and was in good humor.

Crandall's Shell-Back Speeders Do Race

Prof. Milt Crandall's fleet greyhounds of the Western mudflats made their bow to Pittsburgh's sporting fraternity in the Duquesne Garden turtle races last night, proving to the least trusting that turtles do race.

Outstanding successes of the evening were the Sun-Telegraph turtle, entered in the specialty race against a huge sea-turtle, "Convention Hall," two racers and one snapper, and Harry Snavely's "Slogan," winner of the $200 terrapin derby.

Strengthened and revitalized after their long journey from turtle tracks of the west, according to Crandall, the shambling racers are destined, he says, to make Pittsburgh turtle-conscious.

Fed on raw, red meat, the sleek, temperamental racers are piled in baskets and taken to the starting line. As the bugle blows, they scurry in every direction. The finish is decided as they stroll cooly across the final circle marking their distance from the start.

For two hours and a half last night, turtles toddled deliberately over the floor of the skating rink in 11 races. Thoroughbred was pitted against thoroughbred.

It should be understood, according to Crandall, that these are not just ordinary, untrained turtles foisted on the public as racers. Trained by expert terrapin trainers, bathed by the refreshing waves of Crandall's ultra-violet ray machine, and their mettle tried in previous races, these are no ordinary amphibians.

Again tonight, Pittsburghers will have the opportunity of witnessing turtles acting Aesop without the hare at Duquesne Garden.

8 Children Watch Father Defy Niagara in Barrel

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., May 31.—(AP.)—William (Red) Hill, Niagara River man, was a bit bruised and sore today from the buffeting he received in his dash through the rapids below Niagara Falls in a specially-constructed steel barrel on Decoration Day. He said, however, that he would be fit for another trip in 24 hours if any inducements were offered.

Hill started from the Maid of the Mist landing, on the American side, below the cataract and climbed out of his barrel at Queenston dock five hours later. At times his prospect of conquering the river looked doubtful as his strange craft was tossed about among the jagged rocks in the lower rapids.

The descent from the still waters just below the falls, through the tumbling waves of the whirlpool was made quickly.

The barrel spun several times around the whirlpool and then drifted into a shore eddy, from which it was dislodged and towed to Whirlpool Point. Hill opened the cover and got out to stretch his legs and smoke a cigaret. A short time later he re-entered his contraption, clamped down the cover and started on the long stretch of the rapids to Queenston.

Probably the most interested among the thousands who watched his strange voyage were his wife and their eight children. They were the first to embrace him when he set foot on shore.

Twenty years ago he made a similar attempt, but at that time the lid of his barrel came off and he was saved from drowning only after heroic efforts by rivermen.

Pact Won't Cut Tax Load, Senator Johnson Says

By SENATOR HIRAM W. JOHNSON,
Member of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The spurious arguments for the London treaty are that it relieves the "crushing burden of taxation" that politicians love to talk about and never effectually remove, and that definite limitation in naval armament has been accomplished.

The treaty, in reality, does neither.

If the United States builds up under the treaty, and this must be done to make it at all effectual, it will cost this nation (this is the undisputed testimony) $1,071,000,000.

What nonsense, therefore, it is to talk of relieving our people from taxation! There is neither financial saving nor relief under the treaty if we act upon it.

Likewise, in reality there is no limitation; for the treaty specifically provides, under the so-called "escalator" clause, that any party to it, believing its national security demands it, because of new construction by any other power, may build additional war vessels.

Let the American people understand adherence to the London treaty means, if we act favorably upon it, that American taxpayers will pay over a billion dollars; the American Navy must be constructed under British specifications, and if a party to it increases its war vessels, as it has a right to do, America, to keep pace, must follow and build in like fashion.

AS PRESIDENT AT GETTYSBURG EXTOLLED HEROES OF WAR

immortal field and, for the first time, a Confederate veteran was honored by a place on the speakers' platform in the memorial program. The President said, in eulogy of Lincoln:

PAYS TRIBUTE TO LINCOLN

"Every American's thought of this great battlefield at Gettysburg flashes with the instant vision of the lonely figure of Lincoln. No monument has been or can be erected here so noble and enduring as that simple address which has become a part of this place. Greater than the tribute of granite or bronze remains that memorable message to the American people.

"Lincoln's counsel sounded strangely when spoken in the midst of war. His was the call of moderation. Our history would be even brighter than it is if his predecessors and his contemporaries had spoken as temperately as he, if they had been moved by charity toward all, by malice toward none."

HOOVER ENJOYS VISIT

Yesterday's visit to Gettysburg was plainly a source of exhilaration for President Hoover. The weariness which had marked his demeanor when he arrived here from Washington disappeared after he had witnessed more than 1,000 school children strew flowers on the graves of the dead, then race after him as he placed a wreath at the base of the National Monument. He greeted James W. Bodley, superintendent of the cemetery and veteran of the First West Virginia Infantry, and had a pleasant chat with Mrs. M. O. Smith, sole survivor of the choir that sang during the exercises in November, 1863, when Lincoln dedicated the soldiers' plot.

CONFEDERATE HONORED

William Haines, 93, of Washington, who drew his sabre at Gettysburg with Stuart's Confederate cavalry, sat with more than a score of Union veterans and was greeted by the President at the conclusion of his address.

Mrs. Smith had many interesting reminiscences of Lincoln's memorable visit, how tall he was, how he was almost moved to tears when the choir sang his favorite hymns and how he walked arm-in-arm with old John Burns, civilian hero of Gettysburg.

Comrade Haines reminded the President that the battle of Gettysburg was marked by a great cavalry conflict, but that the heroic charges of the horsemen were overshadowed by the deeds of the overwhelming numbers of infantry and artillery. If Stuart's cavaliers had broken the rear of the Union line on the afternoon of the third day, he declared, Gettysburg would have been a great southern victory.

PARADE SETS RECORD

It was apparent President Hoover had enjoyed his day. The weather was perfect. The parade in his honor was the largest ever turned out for a presidential visitor. Gov. John S. Fisher was especially felicitious in his presentation of Mr. Hoover, stating he had exacted the President's promise to visit the battlefield at the notification ceremonies in Palo Alto, Cal., after the Republican nomination in 1928.

The town's boys' band and the One Hundred and Fourth Cavalry Band, with a bugle corps, led the parade, which was composed of 1,000 school children, a contingent of Union veterans, members of several local units of Pennsylvania National Guardsmen, members of the American Legion from Gettysburg and Hanover and Veterans of the Foreign Wars.

The program was brief. After the invocation by the Rev. Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg College, Judge Donald P. McPherson read Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

PRESENTED BY FISHER

Governor Fisher, acting as master of ceremonies, presented the President. The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Dr. John A. Aberly, president of the Lutheran Theological Seminary here.

It is estimated that 30,000 visitors attended the exercises. Nearly all of the vast throng came in automobiles and for hours last night the highways leading out of Gettysburg were jammed with vehicles. Following the exercises, President Hoover and his party left the battlefield under escort of the State Highway patrol, for the estate of Jay Cooke, III, near Williamsport, Pa., where he will devote the week end to trout fishing. Today, thousands of visitors remained at Gettysburg to visit the historic scene.

FRANCE HONORS U. S. DEAD

SOMME CEMETERY, France, May 31.—(INS.)—America's Memorial Day has a deeper meaning here in Europe today than ever before.

To several hundred American Gold Star Mothers who spent it attending services at the graves of their sons the day will always recall intimate memories of spiritual solace.

It was here in the Somme Cemetery in the presence of nearly 200 mothers and a vast throng of French and Americans that the principal services were held. Gen. John J. Pershing motored from Paris to participate.

Here too gathered veterans of New York's Twenty-seventh Division, who received a cordial welcome from the French.

And it was particularly significant that almost simultaneously with the services there rolled through the St. Quentin railroad station nearby, cars loaded with the French army now evacuating the German Rhineland and thus closing the military stage of the war in which their elder comrades gave their lives 12 years before.

The services here were matched throughout American cemeteries in France by ceremonies for all who died in the war. Every American grave in France, even though isolated, was decorated, while Franco-American officialdom joined by Gen. Pershing and United States Ambassador Walter E. Edge paid homage in the name of the two republics.

LINK SUSPECT TO 2 DEATHS

NEW YORK, May 31.—(INS.)—With police officials en route here from Hot Springs, Ark., to question him in connection with a murder there, authorities today were advised that James Watson was wanted for questioning also in a Buffalo killing. Watson was one of a quintet arrested last week in a New York hotel in a $1,000,000 nation-wide gem theft ring.

Buffalo police said Watson was sought in connection with the murder of Luther P. Graves, a wealthy resident of Buffalo, who told police as he died that he was shot by a burglar. Graves was killed in 1921.

Already about $1,300,000 in jewels has been uncovered as a result of the arrest of the quintet, and further recoveries were expected by authorities.

RIDGEWOOD, N. J., May 31.—(INS.)—Hijackers and beer runners' warfare was blamed today by police for the murder of Stanley Wilda and William Schlesinger. Their bodies were found near here yesterday. They had been shot to death and there was evidence both had been tortured before they were killed.

Retaliation for the killing of another gangster in Garfield, N. J., recently may have been the motive for the double killing, police said.

4 DEAD, SEEK 20 IN SEA TRAGEDY

SANTA MONICA, Cal., May 31.—(INS.)—With four bodies recovered and 20 passengers of the capsized deep sea fishing excursion boat Ameco still missing, rescue crews today continued their search for victims.

Fighting huge breakers, rescue boats after an all night search, had brought four bodies ashore early today, they were:

Marguerite Keller, 18; C. C. Barnett, 26; John W. Lockhard, 14, and one unidentified man. All were from Los Angeles.

An accurate check of the number of dead was almost impossible, for many of the missing are believed to be aboard vessels which raced to the scene immediately after the launch capsized.

Thirty-one persons were treated at hospitals here after being saved.

Loaded with a holiday fishing crowd, the Ameco, a 40-foot craft, overturned at sea a mile off the Santa Monica shore when it was caught by a heavy squall and cross sea. Survivors declared that when the launch capsized and threw women, children and men into the sea, it rolled over twice.

CANADA BANS RUM EXPORTS

OTTAWA, May 31.—(AP.)—Exportation of liquor to the United States, which has been extensive and unrestricted by the Dominion government since prohibition went into effect below the border, was illegal today.

A bill sponsored by Premier MacKenzie King refusing clearances to liquor-bearing craft, became law among the measures which were given royal assent by the governor general last night before he prorogued the sixteenth Parliament.

The measure, which passed both houses with little opposition, outlaws the fleets of swift rum-running craft which have defied heavy patrols of United States customs men along the Great Lakes and connecting waters, particularly on the Detroit River. The new law was sought by United States prohibition enforcement authorities for some time before the government submitted its bill to Parliament.

Under its provisions liquor cannot be removed from warehouses for shipment to the United States and vessels laden with liquor cannot obtain clearance papers for United States ports.

Pittsburgher Pays $580, Finds 'Liquor' Is Sand

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—On the trail of Philadelphia's reputed "choice liquor" for a whoopee party back home, Sidney L. Stark, describing himself as a Pittsburgh manufacturer of traffic signals, told ruefully yesterday how he paid $580 for five cases—and got two bags of sand.

Arrested on Stark's complaint, Clifford Peteit, who said he is a chemical engineer, was under $2,500 bail today for hearing June 6 on a charge of conspiracy to defraud.

Stark said he made a street-corner appointment for the liquor deal.

Peteit and another man met him and took his car, saying he would place the liquor in the back and return.

He returned and rode with Stark to Lincoln highway, he said, urging him to hurry because Public Safety Director Schofield is "hot under the collar about booze."

Stary said he became suspicious after the bootlegger left, and took a look at the "liquor."

He concluded:

"We found two bags of sand."

Moves Across Street, Loses School Job

Because Mrs. J. G. Chalfant, Wilkinsburg's only woman school board member, moved across the street from her former domicile, she has tendered her resignation.

Mrs. Thomas J. Robinson, whom she succeeded two years ago, resigned under similar circumstances, it is said, and is now living in Aspinwall.

Recently Mrs. Chalfant disposed of her home at the William Penn Highway, near the Greensburg Pike, on the borough line, and erected a new home almost a stonesthrow away in Penn Township.

Automatically she resigned because of her removal from the borough. The resignation was accepted with regret, according to school board members. Her successor has not yet been named. Action is expected as soon as the Wilkinsburg League of Women Voters, the Civic and Women's clubs agree on a candidate for election by the board. Previously the groups had selected Mrs. Thomas Stephens as Mrs. Chalfant's successor and had so recommended her to the board, but she declined, a spokesman said.

VETERANS' DRUM AND BUGLE CORPS SURROUNDED BY CROWDS DURING ALLEGHENY CEMETERY MEMORIAL DAY SERVICES

County Reverently Pays Honor to Its Heroes, Living and Dead

Joining with the rest of the nation, Allegheny County yesterday paused for a day to pay tribute to its soldier dead, and praise the men who came home.

The day was dark, windy and cold, with threats of rain. But tens of thousands, men and women from all walks of life, turned out to witness parades, crowd cemeteries and combine to make the observance fitting to the occasion.

In the downtown district veterans of the G. A. R. paraded through Fifth avenue to Penn, where they boarded buses and street cars to attend services in Allegheny Cemetery.

The Rev. James R. Cox spoke at services in St. Mary's Cemetery, and W. S. Blakely presided at ceremonies in the Minersville Cemetery. The Daughters of Union Veterans aided Post No. 206, G. A. R., in services at Lincoln Cemetery.

Mt. Lebanon Parade

Services were held in Mt. Lebanon Cemetery under the auspices of the South Hills Memorial Day Association, composed of the South Hills and Kenneth Newman posts of the American Legion. Following a parade in which Mt. Lebanon and Dormont police, school children and veterans took part, services were held at the cemetery. Judge George V. Moore made the address, while the Rev. J. E. Wagner gave the prayer and the Rev. E. C. McCown the invocation.

The North Boroughs Post of the American Legion had charge of services in Bellevue, which were featured by the unveiling of three bronze tablets presented the borough by the Bellevue Memorial Commission. The services were started by a parade which formed at the Legion home. The Rev. James M. Ferguson, of the Bellevue United Presbyterian Church, was the speaker. D. W. Zeber, chairman of the Memorial Commission, presented the tablets to the borough. The speech of acceptance was made by Burgess W. F. Cooley.

Services in Chartiers

Exercises in the Chartiers Cemetery were under the auspices of the Capt. Thomas Espy Post and the Gen. James A. Garfield Post, assisted by the G. A. R. Memorial League, V. F. W., United Spanish War Veterans, and the Carnegie and Crafton posts of the American Legion. Sheriff Robert S. Cain was the speaker. The commander's address was given by J. P. Sankey, commander of the Capt. Thomas Espy Post, while L. W. Mallasse, past commander of the Gen. James A. Garfield Post, was the master of ceremonies.

Gen. George A. Custer Post, G. A. R., with only five members living, had charge of the observance in Sharpsburg and Etna. They were assisted by the Col. F. H. Collier Camp, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, the Etna Ex-Service Club, Sharpsburg Post, American Legion, and Guyasuta Post, V. F. W. Services were conducted first at the Etna Cemetery, where the Rev. W. A. Bomhard spoke, and later at the Greenwood Cemetery, Sharpsburg, where the address was given by the Rev. C. S. Thomas.

March on North Side

Camps of the United Spanish War Veterans of the county held services in the Uniondale Cemetery, with a parade from the North Side Carnegie Hall to the cemetery. The services were under the auspices of Merrill Allen Camp of the North Side. Music was furnished by the United Spanish War Veterans band. Camps in line included Hunt, Shrodes, Adams, Gregg, Hulings, Glenn, Tarentum, Steward, Sewickley Valley, Braddock, Rutledge, and delegations from camps in adjoining counties. William Best, president of the county council of U. S. W. V., was grand marshal.

Pittsburgh Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, honored the memory of Col. James M. Schoonmaker at services in the Homewood Cemetery. Mrs. Fanny Loney Hooff, honorary president, placed the wreath on Col. Schoonmaker's tomb.

Services were held under the auspices of Posts 259 and 3, G. A. R., in Allegheny Cemetery, with Davis Star Camp, Division of Pennsylvania, and the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War assisting. The Rev. W. F. Bracken and Commander Mathew MacDonald, of Post 3, were the speakers.

Bridgeville Post, American Legion, had charge of the community services in Bridgeville, in which the G. A. R., civic clubs and school children took part. Following services, a program was given in the Lincoln School auditorium. Dr. J. Linwood Eisenberg was the speaker.

Sewickley Remembers

In Sewickley the day was observed with the customary services at the Soldiers' Monument. It was the community's fiftieth observance of Memorial Day. Members of the G. A. R. post, Washington Infantry and the Davis Star Camp, together with U. S. W. V. and World War Veterans, took part in the program.

Following the exercises and decoration of the 165 graves, among which are those of three Confederate veterans, the parade returned to the school where a supper was served.

Veterans and members of civic and fraternal organizations took part in a parade through Homestead, West Homestead, Whitaker and Mifflin Township. After traversing principal streets of the boroughs the procession went to Homestead Cemetery, where G. E. Pusch, of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, made the principal address. James Hull was master of ceremonies, and W. T. McMasters, commander of Homestead Post, G. A. R., called the roll. The parade then moved to St. Mary's Cemetery, where William Scott, past commander of Homestead Post, American Legion, was the speaker.

A feature of the parade was when it stopped at the home of L. S. Jones, 90, at Ninth avenue and West street, who was a member of Company D, Eighty-fifth Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, in the Civil War. He was given a military salute and presented a wreath of flowers.

Carrick Pays Tribute

Other services were held in Legion Park, Davis avenue and Brighton road, where Coroner William J. McGregor was the speaker; Knoxville, Brentwood, Carrick and Mt. Oliver, where services were under auspices of Hill Top Post, American Legion; St. Peter's Lutheran and Mount Carmel Cemeteries, where James F. Malone delivered the principal addresses; Woodlawn Cemetery, where William Renton, the only surviving veteran of the Civil War in that district took part; St. Mary's Cemetery McKees Rocks, where the Rev. Dr. Alden Green, of the Sheraden Methodist Protestant Church, delivered the address; McKeesport, Clairton, Wilmerding, Wall and East McKeesport, where services were under auspices of veterans of the Spanish and World wars.

A bronze tablet was presented St. Patrick's old log church at Sugar Creek by members of Fort Pitt General Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus. It is the oldest church west of the Allegheny Mountains.

McPherson Relief Corps No. 60, G. A. R., held the annual twilight services in Point Park, at which the Rev. John D. Van Horn, the Rev. William Kelty and Rabbi B. B. Glazer were the speakers.

SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR VETEREAN'S POST FIRING SQUAD FIRING SALUTE OVER GRAVES IN HIGHWOOD CEMETERY

Text of Hoover's Address

GETTYSBURG, Pa., May 31.—The full text of President Hoover's Memorial Day address at the Gettysburg battlefield follows:

We stand today amidst monuments to the valor and glory of a generation of Americans, North and South, now well-nigh gone. Most of those who bore the burdens of the Civil War have joined their comrades who sleep beneath these mounds. Of a thousand brigades which marched in that great conflict, scarce a score remain.

To the dead we pay again our tribute of gratitude and devotion. To the living we extend heartfelt wishes for a continuation of peaceful years, serene in contemplation of their glorious youth.

The time must come all too soon when these living ties of our generation with the historic past will have passed on. Then we shall have only cherished memories to remind us of those men who heroically died and those women who bravely suffered for great ideals, or who lived on to consummate the reunion of our country, to give stability to its Government, and peace to its people.

Words Still Dominate

Every American's thought of this great battle field of Gettysburg flashes with the instant vision of the lonely figure of Lincoln, whose immortal words dominate this scene. No monument has been or can be erected here so noble and enduring as that simple address which has become a part of this place.

Greater than the tribute of granite or bronze remains that memorable message to the American people. That appeal for the unity of our people and the perpetuation of the fundamentals of our democracy is as vital today in our national thinking as it was when Lincoln spoke.

Could Proclaim Vision

Though no president has been so beset, though no time in our history has been so dark, though never have strong men been so affected with doubts, yet in the midst of all that turmoil he found his strength to lift his head above the clouds and proclaim that vision which the passing years have so fully confirmed.

Today nearly 70 years have passed since Lincoln spoke. Ours is a new day and ours new problems of the republic. There are times when these problems loom ominous and their solution difficult. Yet great as our difficulties may sometimes seem, we would be of little courage if in our concerns we had less of faith than Lincoln had in his far greater task.

Called For Moderation

Lincoln's counsels sounded strangely when spoken in the midst of war. His was the call of moderation. Our history would be even brighter than it is if his predecessors and his contemporaries had spoken as temperately as he, if they had been moved by charity toward all, by malice toward none.

We shall be wise to ponder here what precious wealth of human life might have been preserved, what rivers of tears might never have flowed, what anguish of souls need never have been, what spiritual division of our people might have been avoided, if only our leadership had always been tempered by the moderation and calm vision of Lincoln.

Since his day reason has not always ruled instead of passion, knowledge has not always been sought instead of reliance upon improvised conjecture, patience has not ever delayed the impetuous feet of reckless ambition, quiet negotiation has not always replaced the clamor of the hustings, prudent common counsel has not invariably overcome the allurements of demagogic folly, good will has not always won the day over cynicism and vainglory.

Brought Spiritual Unity

Yet the ideals which he inspired have served to mould our national life and have brought in time great spiritual unity. His words have poured their blessings of restraint and inspiration upon each new generation.

In the weaving of our destiny, the pattern may change, yet the woof and warp of our weaving must be those inspired ideals of unity, of ordered liberty, of equality of opportunity, of popular government, and of peace to which this nation was dedicated. Whatever the terms may be in which we enunciate these great ideals, whatever the new conditions to which we apply them, they must be held eternally valid.

The common striving for these ideals, our common heritage as Americans, and the infinite web of national sentiment—these are the things that have made us a great nation, that have created a solidarity in a great people unparalleled in all human history.

The weaving of freedom is and always will be a struggle of law against lawlessness, of individual liberty against domination, of unity against sectionalism, of truth and honesty against demagoguery and misleading, of peace against fear and conflict. In the forming of this pattern, the abuse of politics often muddies the stream of constructive thought and dams back the flow of well-considered action.

In the solution of the problems of our times we have some new lamps to guide us. The light of science has revealed to us a new understanding of forces and a myriad of instruments of physical ease and comfort to add to the joy of life. The growth of communications, of education, of the press, have made possible a new unity of thought and purpose.

Yet Light Remains

But the light that guides our souls remains the same as that whereby our fathers were led. It is the store of knowledge, the great inspirations of men's souls, the ideals which they carry forward, that have lifted the nation to ever greater heights.

The Union has become not merely a physical union of the states, but rather is a spiritual union in common ideals of our people. Within it is room for every variety of opinion, every possibility of experiment in social progress. Out of such variety comes growth, but only if we preserve and maintain our spiritual solidarity.

Lead to Richer Life

The things of the spirit alone persist. It is in that field that the nation makes its lasting progress. To cherish religious faith and the tolerance of all faiths; to reflect into every aspect of public life the spirit of charity, the practice of forbearance, and the restraint of passion while reason seeks the way; to lay aside blind prejudice and follow knowledge altogether; to pursue diligently the common welfare and find within its boundaries our private benefit; to enlarge the borders of opportunity for all and find our own within them; to enhance the greatness of the nation and thereby find for ourselves an individual distinction; to face with courage and confident expectation the task before us, these are the paths of true glory for this nation.

They will lead us to a life more abounding, richer in satisfactions, more enduring in its achievements, more precious in its bequests to our children—a life not merely of conflict but filled with the joy of creative action.

NEWS OF GREATER PITTSBURGH'S CHURCHES

PRESBYTERIAN MERGER VOTE DUE TODAY

Dr. Wishart Predicts Victory For Measure; New Castle Clergyman Attacks Press

DES MOINES, Ia., May 31.—(AP.)—Delegates to the seventy-second General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church of North America today sought support for the proposed merger of that church with the Northern and Southern Presbyterian churches, the Dutch and German Reformed churches, the Presbyterian Church of the United States, and the United Presbyterian Church of Canada.

A vote on the measure was expected today. The Rev. Dr. W. I. Wishart, pastor of the Eighth United Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh and a former moderator of the church, expressed his belief the combination would be approved.

The Rev. W. J. Reid, of Pittsburgh, chairman of the committee reporting the merger to the assembly, supported the move both in his report yesterday and in a talk before the delegates.

PASTOR ASSAILS PRESS

The Rev. A. J. Randles, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian Church of New Castle, Pa., in a speech before the assembly last night, attacked the press of the nation, declaring a part of it directly opposed to the Constitution of the United States.

He said:

"Time was when the public prints stood for law and order, the support of the Constitution and decency in living. Alas, that day is gone."

Pointing particularly to prohibition, Mr. Randles declared:

"Christianity in America is in peril today, and the Hindenburg line of the battle of the church is prohibition. The battle ground of Christ is here."

MEMORIAL DAY SPEECH

The Rev. Dr. William A. Pollock, of Denver, spoke of Memorial Day and its application to military and missionary heroes.

Concerning the proposed merger, Dr. Wishart said:

"None of the leaders of the church has come out against the measure and there is every indication it will be approved by this assembly.

"If it is adopted, final action will be deferred until the General Assembly of 1931. This is necessary that the proposition may be submitted to each congregation of the church for approval."

The Rev. J. A. MacKelgan, of Moose Jaw, Canada, brought the complete indorsement of the United Presbyterian Church of Canada for the merger.

WILL PREACH IN CHURCHES

Twenty Des Moines churches tomorrow will here ministers here for the Presbyterian Assembly. Among these are the Rev. J. H. White, the Rev. Salvatore Migliore and the Rev. Robert M. Wilson, all of Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh district delegates are leaders of opposing factions growing out of a proposal to change the system of representation on the administrative board, general operating body of the church. Final action on the proposal may be reached today.

The Rev. C. J. Williamson, of the Beaver Valley Presbytery, spoke Friday in favor of memorials urging that the board memberships be rearranged, the total members to remain the same.

Dr. Wishart said the move would be unwise at this time and unfair to the present members of the board. Dr. E. S. McCowan, of Pittsburgh, also favored retaining the present system.

The report, which also called for a determined stand against liquor and observance of all laws, was delivered last night.

Opposition to the report of the committee on co-operation with the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America was expected from some of the fundamentalists. The committee was to submit a report recommending united support of the council.

PRESBYTERIANS SQUELCH FOES OF PRINCETON

By DR. JAMES H. SNOWDEN

CINCINNATI, O., May 31.—There was an unexpected recrudescence of the Princeton storm in the Presbyterian General Assembly yesterday.

Dr. W. L. McEwan, as chairman of the temporary board of directors of Princeton Seminary, appointed by the last General Assembly, reported on their action, setting forth how they had organized and reconstituted the faculty, and how the charter had been changed in accordance with the mandate of the last assembly by the amended legal officials of New Jersey.

The report was received with evident satisfaction by the assembly.

VERBAL BOMBSHELL

Dr. Mark Matthews, of Seattle, who two years ago was instrumental in postponing action in the matter, then said the report was satisfactory to him.

It seemed at that point that the matter was settled, when to the surprise of the assembly, Dr. S. C. Craig, who had opposed the reorganization of Princeton, and is one of the founders of the new Westminster Seminary in Philadelphia, offered a resolution to the effect that, as the validity of the change in the charter and the reorganization of the board never had been tested, therefore the assembly should hold up approval of the report and appoint a committee of five not connected with Princeton to bring a friendly suit and have the matter legally tested before final action be taken.

He contended the amendment to the charter had not been legally obtained, or at least there was doubt about it.

His speech in time wore on the patience of the assembly, which began to show displeasure and grow disorderly, and Dr. Craig would have been interrupted had not Dr. Kerr, the moderater, quieted it and protected the speaker.

LEGALITY DEFENDED

When he was finally through, the floor was taken by Paul Martin, Ohio lawyer and a member of the new board of trustees, who has acted as their counsellor, who assured the assembly that every step had been legally taken in accordance with the mandate of the assembly and the laws of New Jersey.

At this point it developed that Dr. Craig's resolution properly will come up when the report of the new board of trustees comes before the assembly through the standing committee on theological seminaries.

Dr. Craig then withdrew his resolution that it might be offered at the proper time.

The matter of the new board of trustees will come up for approval next Monday.

The battle of Princeton is over, though a few may not yet know it.

In the forenoon an impressive memorial service was held for our soldier dead and deceased ministers. The national loyalty commission reported, and the assembly took the strongest stand for loyalty to the law in general, and in particular for prohibition.

WOMEN RECOGNIZED

CINCINNATI, May 31.—(AP.)—The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. was notified officially today that women are to have the privilege of representation on the ruling bodies of the local churches and presbyteries this year.

An overture sent out to the presbyteries by the last General Assembly approving the election and ordination of women as ruling elders was ratified by a vote of 157 to 115. A report on the result was contained in a statement of the canvass on 1929 overtures offered for submission today.

This marks a step forward in the women's plea for recognition in the ruling powers of the church, but ordination to the ministry is denied them.

Another overture was offered by the last assembly on the election and ordination of women as bishops and pastors, but this was defeated by 165 to 107.

Chic in a Cotton Frock

Pattern 1918

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS.

The neckline, the yoke and the skirt flare of this smart model point their way to slender becoming lines. The neck in back is pointed in sun-tan fashion, a feature that continues its popularity from last season. Sleeveless, for real comfort as well as chic, in the simplicity of the model lies its charm.

Pattern 1918 makes up beautifully in pique, cotton broadcloth, shantung, cotton mesh or silk shirtings. White, pastel shades or a print might be chosen with equally good results. A colored beret, shoes and bag will complete a stunning outfit.

May be obtained only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 14 requires 2⅝ yards of 36 inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our PATTERN BOOK of NEW SPRING and SUMMER STYLES is FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

1.—Enclose 15 cents in coins.
2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.
4—If you want SUN-TELEGRAPH Style Book send 10c extra.

FIRM PERFECTS READY-MIXED CONCRETE

Blaw Knox Co. Engineers Develop New Machinery For Mixing at Factory

For the last 23 years the subject of concrete has been intimately connected with Blaw Knox operations. First, in the development of steel forms; second, in the design and manufacture of numerous products for building concrete roads and third, at time of this writing, in the development and perfection of complete unit, central mixing plants and agitator truck bodies to haul the mixed concrete to the job.

During the past few years the commercial mixing and delivery of concrete in a form ready for use has made giant strides. It has been found to be more economical for many builders to discontinue former practice of mixing on the job. They now purchase concrete as such, made to specification, delivered to the job without an iota of waste. Such concrete, being made under expert supervision with aggregates exactly proportioned to specification by means of unfailing mechanical devices, is trustworthy to the last degree.

NEW YORK PLANT

Among the many complete ready-mixed concrete plants of Blaw Knox design and manufacture is that owned and operated by the Central Concrete Mixing Company, of Brooklyn, N. Y., cited as an example of latest engineering design and attention to detail as well as for economical construction. Plants of this character mean that ready-mix concrete can be purchased at the lowest possible figure, giving at the same time a good return on investment to the owner.

The Central Concrete Mixing Company includes at the present time a complete bulk cement storage and handling system, an aggregate bin of 300-ton capacity, a quadruple 16,000-pound weighing batcher for aggregates, a 3,000-pound weighing batcher for cement, a 250-gallon water cement ratio measuring tank, a three-cubic yard mixer, screw conveyors, etc., and agitator truck bodies of three and five-cubic yard capacity to haul the mixed concrete from the plant to the waiting jobs.

NO CHANGE IN GLASS

Another week has passed without any important change in the window plate or rolled glass markets. Demand continues to be extremely quiet with little anticipation of any noticeable improvement for some weeks to come, according to the National Glass Budget.

Production of window glass in April just passed the 400,000-box mark, according to an unofficial estimate. Demand so far this year has just about broken even with production until in April when orders exceeded factory output by approximately 50,000 boxes. Most of the manufacturing firms have stock on hand to take care of any demand that may arise. In one or two instances, however, manufacturers are shipping the glass as produced.

At the middle of the week there were eight firms operating 12 tanks with a total of 69 sheet machines that draw the glass vertically from the tank. Three plants in the Southwest, one equipped with sheet machines and two with cylinder machines, are down for alterations or repairs. In addition to the above production, the Libbey-Owens-Ford Company has in the neighborhood of five or six machines on window glass. The only cylinder glass plant in operation is that of the Interstate Window Glass Corporation at Mt. Jewett, Pa. This plant is equipped with eight machines.

New Financing for Week Totals Lower

NEW YORK, May 31.—New securities placed in the market during the week ended May 29 aggregated $73,042,000, and consisted of $45,317,000 in bonds and $27,725,000 in stocks. In the preceding period, when total new financing amounted to $208,453,000, new bond issues were floated to the amount of $173,253,000 and stocks $35,200,000. During the week ended May 31, last year, combined new financing aggregated $72,204,347 and comprised $61,361,000 in bonds and $10,843,347 in stocks.

Bank Institute To Meet at Denver

NEW YORK, May 31.—More than 80 phases of practical bank operation will be taken up for detailed discussion in eight series of departmental conferences at the twenty-eighth annual convention of the American Institute of Banking Section of the American Bankers Association, which will be held in Denver, Col., June 16 to 20. The institute, which is the educational section of the bankers association, conducts 208 chapters in cities throughout the United States for class study by bank officers and employes in practical banking subjects, as well as a number of study groups, and has a total enrollment of 45,000.

Ocean Travel Gains Over 1929 Traffic

NEW YORK, May 31.—Trans-Atlantic passenger traffic to the United Kingdom, France and north European ports in 1929 will exceed that of last year, which was a record breaker, it is announced by the Port of New York Authority.

The statement, it is said, is based on reports from the leading steamship lines. At this time all lines are booked solid for the next two months and in most instances there are long lists of prospective travelers awaiting possible cancellations. To take care of this business there are 171 passenger sailings scheduled from New York to Europe during June and July.

For the first quarter of this year, the announcement says, a total of 189,620 passengers is reported, an increase of 13 per cent over the same period last year.

Dairy Loans Ok'd By Farm Board

WASHINGTON, May 31.—A loan of $900,000 to United Dairymens' Association, Seattle, Wash., has been tentatively approved by the Federal Farm Board. It was announced. A loan of $450,000 to challenge Cream and Butter Association, Los Angeles, Cal., also has been tentatively approved.

These loans were characterized by farm board officials as another step in the board's program of assisting existing co-operatives in distribution of dairy products.

Burley Tobacco Acreage Lower

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Adverse weather conditions have lowered estimates of Burley Tobacco acreage, James C. Stone, vice chairman of farm board, said. Previous indications pointed to a 15 per cent to 20 per cent increase in crop, but this has been lowered considerably by lack of rain and by cold weather.

RAILS OWN BUS STOCK

Ownership of the Greyhound Corporation and its affiliated companies, comprising the largest individual motor coach operation in the United States, is spread not only among leading banking and transportation companies, but also includes several railroads. Among motor bus lines, the Greyhound Corporation is practically alone in its affiliation with the railroads, and this connection has made Greyhound the leader in motor bus transportation as well as one of the most powerful and substantial transportation units in the United States.

Blocks of the common stock of the Greyhound Corporation are held by the Pennsylvania. The Southern Pacific owns one-third of the stock of the Pacific Greyhound, and the same amount in Southland Greyhound. The Great Northern controls one-third of the Northland Greyhound, and the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy holds 10 per cent of the Pickwick-Greyhound. A fifth railroad, the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac, has a substantial amount of stock in Richmond-Greyhound.

In addition to railroad holdings in Greyhound Corporation, control is vested in three companies, namely: Automotive Investments, Inc., Goldman Sachs Trading Corporation and the Insull interests.

Trusteed Equities Forms New Unit

NEW YORK, May 31. — Announcement has been made by Trusteed Equities Foundation, Incorporated, of the formation of Foundation Trusteed Shares, a fixed common stock investment trust with improved management features. Assured of broad diversification through the inclusion in the portfolio of shares of capital stock of 130 outstanding corporations, the underlying security represents 15 major industries, in addition to shares of leading banks and insurance companies. All stocks with the exception of the latter and a few important Curb Exchange securities are listed on the New York Stock Exchange. The industries represented include leading railroads, public utilities, food companies, tobacco companies, chemicals, retail chains, metals, petroleum, building and building equipment, automobiles and automobile equipments, railroad equipments, amusement enterprises, and industrials.

Earnings Running Above 1928 Figures

First quarter earnings this year, despite their spectacular drop, were actually 1.7 per cent greater, in the cases of 268 leading concerns which provide a continuous three-year quarterly record, than in the first quarter of 1928. It either is not generally known, or is being lost sight of, at the moment. Corporation earnings for the first quarter of 1928, in turn, had established a new record up to that time. Hence average earnings during the first quarter of the current year were bad only by comparison with recent peak levels, according to Standard Statistics Company.

Corporation profits for the second quarter of the current year are likely to compare even more favorably with the corresponding 1929 quarter than did those of the first quarters this year and last.

McKeesport Tin Plate Profits Gain

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE DECLARATION OF AN EXTRA dividend of 50 cents a share by the McKeesport Tin Plate Company early this week attests to the exceptional stability of this branch of the steel industry. While tin plate, like every other business, has good and bad years, it is not subject to the wide fluctuations in volume and price which the steel trade in general experiences.

The extra was in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of $1 a share. On January 2 the company also paid an extra of 50 cents.

The principal consumers of tin plate are the makers of cans for packing foods and other products. The principal factor controlling the demand for tin plate is the expected volume of fruits and vegetables which will be available for packing. The consumption of tin plate is affected by weather in the crop areas, but the material is supplied to so many localities that a crop failure at one or two points is not likely to have a serious effect on the total use of tin plate.

Products Increase

THE NUMBER OF PRODUCTS being packed in tin is increasing year by year. The packers are constantly developing markets for new canned fruits and vegetables. Grapefruit and sauerkraut are among the canned products which have shown large gains in recent years.

While there are many elements of uncertainty in the canning industry, the tin plate makers do not have to do the gambling on crop prospects. The tin plate is ordered far in advance of harvest time to insure an adequate supply. The inventories of cans and tin plate are carried by the can companies, most of which are large organizations in strong financial positions.

Costs Reduced

TRADE DEPRESSIONS such as the one reducing steel profits at present do not unfavorably affect the tin plate producers to any marked extent. The current unsettlement in the steel business is aiding rather than hurting the McKeesport Tin Plate Company. The organization buys semi-finished steel which it rolls into sheets and then coats with tin. The price of semi-finished steel is now about $4 a ton lower than a year ago and about $2 a ton below the low point of 1927.

The company operates the largest single tin plate plant in the world near McKeesport. It includes 44 hot mills with an annual capacity of 4,000,000 boxes of tin plate a year. About 3,500 are employed.

Profits Increase

SALES AND NET PROFITS showed a substantial gain last year. Net sales in 1929 reached $17,232,562 against $15,507,954 in 1928. Net profit after all charges for the year was $2,402,200, which was equivalent to $8 a share on 300,000 shares of capital stock. This compared with $1,587,954 or $5.29 a share in 1928.

The year's operations were marked by improvement in the company's financial position. Notes of $1,750,000 were paid. Current assets of $7,033,804 at the close of 1929 were nearly seven times current liabilities. Working capital was increased to $5,590,004 from $5,067,135 at the close of 1928. The company has no funded debt or preferred stock.

CONTRACT LET FOR NEW MILL

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 31.—In its program for the manufacture of steel pipe by the electric welding process, the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company has awarded a contract to a Cleveland maker for a mill which will produce tubing up to 24 inches in diameter.

This mill will be largely designed after plans prepared by the Sheet and Tube company's engineers.

Republic Steel Corporation expects to book large tonnages of pipe immediately upon completion of its second unit for producing electrically welded tubing.

Sheet and Tube has placed an order for 128 mine cars with the Enterprise Wheel and Car Company.

Conditions Better, Says Boston Bank

Aggregate industrial production in New England as well as for the country as a whole, turned upward in April, contrary to the usual seasonal trend, according to the First National Bank, of Boston.

While this upturn was in part due to the late Easter, fundamental factors are becoming more favorable. General commodity prices are tending toward greater stability, and a few commodities have recently advanced. With inventories in general down to a more conservative basis, in most cases considerably below a year ago, buying for immediate needs has become more pressing.

Domestic Copper Sales Off in Week

NEW YORK, May 31.—Reviewing the trend of the copper market the past week, metal and mineral markets reports that domestic sales were on a greatly reduced scale but that export business was in sizeable volume. The dullness in domestic copper, the review states, is accepted as a natural sequence to the record activity of the past few weeks.

Vote on Liquidation Of Lake Copper Co.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Stockholders of the Lake Copper Company, owning properties in Michigan, will vote June 17 on the question of liquidating the company, Vice President F. Ward Painte announces. No actual work has been done at the mine since 1929.

APRIL EXPORTS OF OIL UP

WASHINGTON, May 31.—April exports of refined petroleum totaled 841,601,150 against $38,673,120 a year ago; four months' shipments aggregated $161,719,527 against $157,262,388. Exports of crude petroleum were $2,323,417 against $2,161,662; four months' totals, $9,601,483 against $8,995,190. March gasoline consumption in 43 states averaged 25,959,000 gallons a day against 24,234,000 daily in March, 1929, an increase of 7.1 per cent. For the first quarter, consumption in these states averaged 23,767,000 gallons daily against 21,284,000 in 1929 quarter, an increase of 11.7 per cent.

To Judge Electric Power Forecasts

Papers which have been sealed and locked in a vault for five years are now before the 15 directors of The American Superpower Corporation, who are acting as a board of judges to award a prize of $10,000 for the best review of the development of the electric power and light industry during the decade 1920-1930. The announcement of the winning paper will be made in less than three weeks at the fifty-third annual convention of the National Electric Light Association, which will gather in San Francisco June 16-20.

The papers, 438 in all, were originally submitted on May 18, 1925. In March of that year Bonbright & Company, Inc., investment bankers specializing in underwriting and distributing the securities of public utility companies, offered prizes aggregating $10,000 for the best story of the electric power and light industry during the 10-year period, each essay to be dated as of January 1, 1930, although actually written in 1925. The papers were thus, in effect, a five years' review and a five years' forecast.

No Change Shown In Power Output

The production of electricity in the United States for the week ended Saturday, May 24, was the same as that of the previous week and the same as that of the corresponding week of last year, according to telegraphic reports from electric light and power companies received by the Statistical Research Department of the National Electric Light Association.

STEEL INGOT OUTPUT DIP SEASONAL

Spring Declines Smaller Than Usual; Pipe Line Orders Show Bulge

By B. E. V. LUTY.

A continuous decline in the rate of steel ingot production during the last five weeks may make an unfavorabel impression, but it would be absurd to ignore precedents when they all show seasonal decline with the exception of last year. The really important fact is that recent declines have been of less than the usual seasonal amount.

In a way this is favorable though it would be unsafe to conclude that it is a reflection of improvement in trade generally for it may be due to buyers having been slower than usual in making their engagements. Two special influences have been at work in the direction of sustaining steel production, the first being that the automobile industry reached its peak rate of operation somewhat later than usual, the second being the large amount of line pipe ordered in the last five or six weeks.

Steel ingot production in the last week has been at 75 to 76 per cent of capacity. It is recognized that lower estimates have been made, but it is probably sufficient to point out that estimates during April made in the same quarters were subsequently shown by the official report of tonnage produced in the month to have been too low by about 3 points. The April average, according to official data, was between 79 and 80 per cent. The decline to date is smaller than usual.

RATE NOW 75 PER CENT

An interesting showing is thereby made. Taking 75 per cent as the present rate the daily tonnage produced is larger than at this date in any previous year, barring 1929, the rate at this date being estimated by taking the mean of May and June for previous years. Gains over 1923 and 1926 are insignificant, but there is a large gain over 1924 and 1925 and a moderate gain over 1926 and 1927.

That seasonal decline has been unusually light is brought out by the fact that cumulative steel production in the year to date does not make so favorable comparison. It is, of course, under 1929, and it is also under 1928, by about 3 per cent, while it merely approximates 1927 and 1926.

NO DULL SUMMER

From this and other considerations the augury is plain that there will not be a dull summer in steel in the proper acceptation of that term, which certainly should mean much less activity in summer than in other parts of the year. To those who think steel has been dull recently and is still duller now, and there are such persons, the summer will certainly be dull also.

The steel industry would be in rather good shape if prices made half as good a showing as tonnage, but they do not, referring to their recent performance, their present condition and their apparent prospects. Some steel products have declined more than others, while rails have escaped and tin plate has slipped only a trifle. Present references to prices are general in character, referring rather to averages. The average has declined to about $2 a ton below the low of late 1927, which was short-lived, there being a prompt though only small recovery. This time there is no sign of recovery.

RETAIL TRADE RETARDED

No material improvement is noted in the business situation this week, unseasonable low temperatures retarding sales at both wholesale and retail, according to R. G. Dun & Company's Weekly Review. Business with the larger stores is not up to normal for this season of the year, and specialty shops are also transacting a smaller volume of business. Jobbers of men's and women's wearing apparel report sales as having fallen off to some extent; shoe jobbers are also complaining that buying is comparatively light, although there seems to be a fair demand for millinery and men's straw hats. Jobbers of hosiery report volume of business rather unsatisfactory. There is only a fair movement of groceries, with demand for dried and canned fruits particularly slow.

Demand for plumbing and heating supplies continues very slow, and while quite a few orders have been received for heavy electrical equipment, electrical fixtures are still moving slowly.

Production of bituminous coal continues at a low rate, with demand still slow. Pennsylvania grades of run-of-mine coal are quoted per net ton at mines as follows: steam coal, $1.25 to $1.75; gas coal, $1.65 to $1.75; coking coal, $1.50 to $1.75; steam slack, 90c to $1.10; gas slack, $1.00 to $1.25.

ANGLO-SOVIET TRADE

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Orders placed by Soviet trading organizations in Great Britain during the past six months are more than double those for the corresponding period a year ago, and more than three-fold in comparison with 1927-1928, according to figures by the Bank for Russian Trade, one of the two Soviet banking institutions in London, transmitted to the Department of Commerce.

About three-fourths of these orders, £6,611,703, were placed through the principal trading organization, Messrs. Arcos, Ltd. The only other two trading organizations of importance were Centrosoyus (England) Ltd., £1,648,623, and the Russo-British Grain Export Company, Ltd., at £601,022. Orders placed through other channels totaled £1,530.

MIRROR POOL FEATURE AT PARK

Memorial First Burial Estate Promoted Here After 27-Year Lapse

After a lapse of 27 years without a new burial property, Allegheny County Memorial Park is bringing to Pittsburgh its finest, most beautiful burial estate. At the present time more than $1,000,000 is being spent on landscape and development work. In addition to this, plans call for the expenditure of a half-million dollars on the buildings of the park, included among which are the combined chapel and administration building and the tower of chimes. The tower of chimes will be 150 feet high and will house a set of chimes of 75 bells, said to be the largest set of chimes in America. These chimes will play for all funerals and for short memorial services from time to time.

One of the features of the memorial court, at the entrance of the park, will be the mirror pool. This pool will reflect the chapel and administration building and the surrounding court. Excavation for the mirror pool has been started and the entrance drive is being laid.

MANY VISITORS

It is also interesting to note that in the building of the roads and drives in the park more than eight miles of curbing will be necessary. The sponsors of Allegheny County Memorial Park have decided to use for these curbs only the finest granite obtainable. This means the expenditure of many thousands of dollars more than if ordinary cement curbs were used. Curbs are now being set in the drives through the southwestern section of the park, which will be ready for pavement interments by late summer.

Many people are visiting the property of Allegheny County Memorial Park and are enthusiastic in their praise of the development work already done. The company has an office building at the property and representatives are there at all times to explain the construction program to visitors.

RECORD MADE BY AGENCY

On Tuesday, May 27, a national one day sales test was conducted by the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia. The Pittsburgh Agency of which Holgar J. Johnson is general agent, insured more people in this one day's sales effort than any other agency in the country outside of New York, Philadelphia, and Chicago.

The leader in the local agency was William J. Wright. In addition to leading the Pittsburgh Agency, he ranked second in the whole country.

An interesting feature of this sales contest was that the 6,000 salesmen of the Penn Mutual scattered in every city and hamlet in the United States were notified simultaneously and given only 24 hours to prepare their prospect list for this unusual sales test, the purpose of which was to prove their loyalty to the company in an unusual effort and also to demonstrate that business is available although it sometimes takes unusual effort.

Ntl. Fireproofing Operations Fair

Operations of the National Fireproofing Corporation during the month of May were at a fair rate. April was a successful month as to operations in both the conduit and tile departments and May will probably average as high as April. Conduit operations are good, and as building operations increase with the warmer weather, the tile department is expected to pick up considerably.

OLIVER STEEL EXPANDS MILLS

Company Extensive Makers Of Light and Medium Weight Drop Forgings

Recent expansion of the Oliver mills is another sign of Pittsburgh's new forward movement. The Oliver Iron and Steel Corporation was established April 25, 1863, by Henry W. Oilver, William J. Lewis and John Phillips, under the firm name of Lewis, Oliver & Philips. They located on the corner of what is now South Tenth and Muriel streets, South Side. In the following year, they associated with James B. Oliver and David B. Oliver.

At the outset of their business they made bolts by foot hammers, known as "Olivers." These made an excellent bolt, but comparatively small product, which led Mr. Lewis of the firm to invent and develop a bolt heading machine, for forging the heads on different kinds of bolts. This machine, perfected in 1865, was one of the first inventions of the kind. It is still known as the Lewis bolt heading machine, and has been in practical and successful use until within the past few years.

KEEN COMPETITION

In 1868 the firm erected a large two-story brick building on Eleventh street, facing its rolling mill. The business flourished and grew so rapidly that better arrangements were provided in due time. Mr. Lewis had brought out his bolt forging machine, made up partly on the lines of the old wood machine, which gained considerable prominence on the market during the early sixties. In a few years the competition of this company became so strong that many of the eastern manufacturers were induced to move their factories west of the Alleghenies to fight such lusty competition at shorter range and to obtain cheaper and better manufacturing facilities.

The company was the first to recognize the advantage of using soft steel for carriage, machine, track and other bolts, and by adhering to the use of open hearth steel, it produced a bolt of exceptionally high quality. The firm kept to the front in the development of its business of bolt, nut and rivet making, and, until recently, manufactured a complete line of hardware for use in wagons. It manufactures pole line hardware, such as cross-arm braces, steel insulator pins, pole steps, pole seats, guy rods, guy clamps, pole clamps, etc., galvanized and self-colored. This line has been increased to include many specialties for line equipment. The firm also manufactures heavy hardware, including crow bars, picks, mattocks, wedges, screw hook and strap hinges, etc.

NEW YORK SHIP EXPANDS ITS BACKLOG

Unfilled Business Now Totals $60,000,000 With Other Orders in Sight

NEW YORK, May 31. — Prospects for New York Shipbuilding Corporation, shipbuilding subsidiary of American Brown Boveri, are better now than they have been for years. The expansion programs of various American ship lines and the naval program indicate unusual business for the industry, much of which may go to New York Shipbuilding Corporation.

The recent announcement of the award by the United States Lines of contracts for two 30,000-ton ships to New York Shipbuilding brings the company's total of unfilled business at present to approximately $60,000,000. The two United States Lines ships will cost about $10,500,000 each, or $21,000,000 in all, but the business going to the company will be about $19,000,000 each ship requiring about $1,000,000 of equipment not furnished by the New York Shipbuilding.

WORLD'S LARGEST YARDS

In addition to these orders there is a large amount of business still to be let during the coming year. The United States Lines has yet to award contracts for two more 30,000-ton ships like the two awarded to New York Shipbuilding. These ships will be built during 1930.

The company's shipyards in Camden, N. J., would be ample to handle all four 30,000-ton ships at one time. The yards are the largest in the world, having a river frontage of over a mile.

YEAR'S OUTLOOK BRIGHT

As the shipbuilding industry for the last few years has been quiet, the large building programs planned by passenger lines and the government indicate a thorough revival and unusually good prospects for the current year, which will probably carry through for another year or more.

American Brown Boveri's subsidiary has started out with a large share of this increased business, which indicates that the company will continue to book somewhere near a proportional amount of the prospective orders. The company's huge yards and the performance of its two most recently completed ships give it an excellent opportunity to do the largest amount of business it has had in many years.

British-German Metal Firms To Co-Unite

LONDON, May 31.—Amalgamated Metal Corporation, which holds all shares of British Metal Corporation, and Henry Gardener & Co., is about to effect a substantial exchange of shares with Metallgesell-Schaft of Frankfurt. The object of the transaction is to secure co-operation in certain directors and to facilitate provision of raw materials needed by smelters and refineries associated with the two groups. Each company will have the right of representation on the other's board.

Reeser Predicts Higher Prices For Oil

LOS ANGELES, May 31.—E. B. Reeser, head of Barnsdall Corporation and president of the American Petroleum Institute, believes higher crude oil prices in California will automatically follow soon after stabilized California production has been attained, some time in June.

The oil executive made this prediction preparatory to leaving Los Angeles this week for the East after a survey of conditions on the Pacific Coast.

SCIENTIST SCORES PRISON CROWDING CAUSING REVOLTS

SEGREGATION HELD URGENT BY SCIENTIST

Decent Suffer Through Rules Made for Worst Inmates; Authorities at Sea

By DR. JOHN R. OLIVER,

Noted Psychiatrist of John Hopkins Institute, Lecturer and writer. (Written Expressly for Universal Service, Inc.)

BALTIMORE, May 31.—Overcrowded prison conditions with inability to separate and classify criminals properly are without doubt responsible for rioting and general unrest in penal institutions.

The predicament of the prisoner is the same as that which would be the fate of any human. If you shut us in where we cannot get out, where we are always rubbing elbows with other people and have no privacy and we are forced into constant contact with those we do not like, we cannot adjust ourselves.

We become touchy, nervous and suspicious and are ever on edge. Take the family consisting of mother, father and five children, who are compelled to live in three rooms with no privacy.

We have known many unfortunate marriages to be the result. A girl, eager for some privacy, decides to be married and takes the first man who comes along just to get out.

STIRS CONVICTS TO REVOLT

So it is with the prisoner in overcrowded quarters, and with everything to stir his mind to fiercest revolt, he decides that he must get out at any cost. Discontent comes first, then strikes and finally riots.

We cannot shut humans in overcrowded places without evil results. The family, as bad as its conditions may be, is able to get away from the house occasionally, but not so with the prisoner. His mind gets raw. He is rubbed too closely with others.

It is not so bad if you are put into an overcrowded place with people you like.

FIRST OFFENDERS HARMED

Take the first offender. He is probably a rather decent fellow in most respects. He may be a bank clerk who has stolen money. If you jam him with a lot of roughnecks and rebellious men, it will not be long before he is reduced to their level.

If that type of man were placed with a group of his own kind who talk his language, his fate and general conditions would be improved. As it is now, everybody must suffer by the present arrangement of things under overcrowded conditions.

The evils can be attributed to two things—the inability to separate and classify prisoners, and the difficulties that beset overcrowding.

Some states have been able to segregate the worst type of prisoners from the others, but even there, I have been told, overcrowded conditions have brought on evils that exist elsewhere.

RULES MADE FOR WORST

Prisons must be run so as to control their worst inmates and the more decent must suffer. As those of the better class are herded with the others, the tendency is to drop to the level of the worst.

So it is that the first offender becomes degraded. This overcrowding without segregation hardens and brutalizes and helps make criminals of men who otherwise would not have become so. Prison authorities cannot apply the kindness that would control the better element because the hard-boiled and rebellious are there and would not understand that kind of treatment.

In Maryland we are preparing to meet the situation by erecting an institution in the counties for first offenders and the better-behaved. What keeps our penitentiary, House of Correction and other institutions in this state so well regulated is the fact that every prisoner is engaged in some occupation.

CAN'T CLASSIFY INMATES

Here, in this state, the difficulty has not been one of administration, but one of inability to classify prisoners because of overcrowding.

Revolutions start in overcrowded districts. History proves that. If ever a revolution breaks out in New York or any other city, it will be in the overcrowded tenement districts when conditions become unbearable.

I have no personal knowledge that the Ohio State Prison at Columbus, where so many were burned to death in rioting, was overcrowded, but I have been told that such was the case, and we can place a great part of the blame on that. It has been so with other prisons where there has been rioting, according to the best information I have been able to gather.

Fireworks Plane Falls, Two Killed

FAIRMONT, W. Va., May 31.—(AP.)—The crash of an airplane from which fireworks were being set off last night during a holiday celebration at Arnettsville, near here, caused death to two men.

Everett Arnholtt, 30, Coshocton, O., was killed outright and the pilot, Lieut. Loren H. Scott, Marietta, O., died in a hospital here.

BUCS END LONG HOME STAY

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

Another Blow to Cubs. Can't Replace Hornsby. Frederick's Doubles.

LOSS OF STAR JOLTS BRUIN CHANCES

WHATEVER EDGE THE Chicago Cubs may have appeared to hold over the remainder of the National League pennant field, by reason of their strength on paper and the evidence of last year's flag victory, has been wiped out by adverse fates. Trailed by misfortune, like the Pirates, since the start of the race, the Bruins saw their woes reach a climax yesterday, when, just two days after the death of Hal Carlson, and following a long run of injuries and illness of which Rogers Hornsby, Charley Grimm, Riggs Stephenson, Lester Bell and Guy Bush were the victims, a second mishap to Hornsby resulted in a broken ankle and put the star out of commission for at least six weeks and possibly longer.

Rogers Hornsby.

The league champions have been making a game fight under their repeated handicaps, as attested by their success in twice beating the fast-stepping Cardinals yesterday, and have managed to stick in the going in spite of all that has happened to them, but their ability to strike or maintain a pennant stride without Hornsby is seriously open to question.

IN THE CHICAGO lineup last year, Hornsby represented the difference between a team that had been a mere contender previously and one that was able to win the pennant by a margin of 10½ games. Rogers was the big gun in the attack that carried the Cubs to the league championship. He batted .380, being topped only by Lefty O'Doul and Babe Herman, scored 156 runs for a new National League record, led the loop in slugging with an average of .681, and ranked third at driving in runs with a total of 149.

There isn't a ball club in the world that would not be weakened seriously by the loss of a player of that caliber. Rogers is one who cannot be replaced. And in addition to what the club loses in Hornsby's individual playing value, there must be reckoned also the possibility that the confidence and general morale of the other players will be lowered. Even if he is able to return to the game in six weeks, it is unlikely that the injured star will be able to attain his best form until some time afterward. On the whole, it is a staggering blow to Chicago's pennant chances.

JOHNNY FREDERICK, Brooklyn outfielder, made his first major league season a notable one by smashing the National League's modern record for two-baggers. Frederick last year made 52 doubles, the largest number credited to any National League player since Ed Delehanty collected 56 in 1899.

Johnny Frederick.

Not content with that, Frederick has started out in a fair way to do even better in his second year. Already he has cracked out 16 two-base hits in 39 games. That puts him far ahead of his 1929 schedule, and if he keeps up that gait he will break not only his own new league record, the best since 1900, but Delehanty's as well.

AFTER TODAY THE Pirates will not appear in another championship game at home until June 18, but before the Enemen go East Monday night local fans will have a chance to see them in an exhibition event that is likely to draw a much larger crowd than the average league contest. Connie Mack will bring his world champion Philadelphia Athletics to Forbes Field for an exhibition game with the Bucs Monday afternoon, and the meeting shapes up as one of the most attractive special numbers ever offered here. Both clubs will use their regular lineups except in the battery positions, which will give Pittsburgh district fans a view of Al Simmons, Jimmy Foxx, Bing Miller, Jimmy Dykes and the rest of Mack's famous stars in action.

IF THE PRESENT average of Earl Sheely may be taken as a criterion, there is a difference of almost 100 points between the National League and the Pacific Coast League in a player's batting. The best that Sheely could do for the Pirates last year was .292, but for San Francisco in the Coast loop this season he is hitting .386.

The big first sacker ranks fifth in the league, being headed by Boone, of the Missions, with .459; Rosenberg, of the Missions, with .435; Schulmerich, of Los Angeles, with .434, and Williams, of Portland, with .394. Sheely has made 66 hits in 171 times at bat in 45 games. Wingo, of San Francisco, leads the league in home runs with 13, Freitas, of Sacramento, tops the pitchers, with six won and none lost, and Haney, of Los Angeles, ranks first in stolen bases with 13.

THOUGH THE DEAL may turn out to be one of the kind that helps both sides, first impressions of the Yankee-Tiger trade yesterday, in which New York gave up Pitcher Waite Hoyt and Shortstop Mark Koenig for Pitcher Owen Carroll, Outfielder Harry Rice and Infielder George Wuestling, are that Detroit got the better of it.

When a club demands three players for two it is generally an admission that it considers the two men it is giving away as being superior to at least two of those it is getting in return.

Owen Carroll.

DETROIT RECEIVES A fine pitcher and a good shortstop, regardless of their records this year, and it is possible that the combination will make the Tigers flag contenders. It has been said in the American League this spring that they needed only a shortstop to put them in the fight, and now they've got not only that shortstop but a strong pitcher in addition. The Yanks' chance of gaining by the exchange lies in the possibility that Carroll may find himself and live up to the great promise he showed while at Holy Cross. If he does he will be a winner. Rice is reported to have a weak throwing arm and is said to be hard to handle, while Wuestling is useful for nothing more than utility roles.

IN THE AFTERNOON portion of yesterday's holiday bill at Forbes Field, in which the Pirates and Reds broke even—the only double number of the day in the National League in which one club did not win both games—the fans saw something out of the ordinary when Larry Benton and Archie Campbell, the Red pitchers, made a total of four wild pitches, Campbell being charged with three of them, and two in one inning.

That's coming close to the standing records. Mike Morrison, of the Syracuse club in the old American Association, made seven wild pitches in a game against Columbus in 1890, but for the present two big leagues the high mark is five, charged to Jim Hagen, of the Phillies, in 1883; Charles Wheatley, of the Tigers, in 1912, and Larry Cheney, of the Dodgers, in 1918. The record for one inning is three, first made by Jake Weimer, of the Chicago Nationals, in 1903, and duplicated by Milt Gaston, while with the St. Louis Americans in 1927. A runner scored on each of Gaston's wild flings.

WHILE your mind is dealing with weighty problems or dwelling upon the bigger things in life, you may wonder what ever became of

FRIEDMAN SETS NEW JAVELIN RECORD

By JESS CARVER.

For just the second time in history a United States Military Academy athletic team visits in our midst today as the Army track and field squad appears in the Stadium for a dual meet with Pitt, aiding and abetting the Panthers in ringing down the 1930 intercollegiate track curtain in Pittsburgh.

During the 1929 basketball season Leo Novak brought his Cadet passers here to meet Pitt, and Doc Carlson, while extending to the Soldiers all the privileges of the city and all the hospitality he could muster, served 'em an unforgettable bootin' around in the game itself. The tables may be reversed today, with the track team taking the bumps due the cagers.

PETE, KNOBBY THROUGH

Today's meet marks the close of the local careers of a pair of Pitt stars. Capt. R. F. (Petah) Bowen and Ed Knoblock will make their final home appearance against the Cadets. Capt. Bowen figures to be a starter in the 100, 220 and 440 and a contestant in the broad jump, shot and possibly the javelin. Knoblock will run in both hurdle races and will fling the javelin.

The Cadet forces are led by George Lermond, brother of the famous Leo and almost as good a distance runner as his famed brother; George Murrell, for the past four years varsity fullback, and Hutchison, Crabb and Messinger, also gridiron luminaries. Messinger was a pip of an end, you will recall, teaming up with Carlmark to form one of the best

TWO I. C. 4-A. MARKS FALL

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 31.—(AP.)—To the tingling tune of record-shattering performances, Stanford's brawn and Southern California's speed were pitted against each other yesterday in a stirring prelude to the battle between these two Pacific coast universities for the East's blue ribbon track and field title—the I. C. 4-A. championship.

Two meet records were broken, one of them involving a new American mark and a third was equalled, all by California talent, as Stanford and University of Southern California finished neck and neck in the struggle for qualifying places in 11 of the 15 championship events.

STANFORD LEADS

After the smoke of battle had cleared, Stanford held a scant lead with 13 qualifying places and the possibility of gaining one more if a dispute is settled over night in the Cardinal's favor. Southern California placed 12 men.

Harlow Rothern started the meet with a sensational toss of 52 feet, ¼ inch in the shotput, shattering his own meet record of 50 feet, 3 inches by nearly two feet and at the same time setting a new American mark.

The second meet record to tumble was in the javelin throw, where blond, lanky Kenneth Churchill, of the University of

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF THURSDAY: THE TAIL FEATHERS OF A PEACOCK ARE NOT BEAUTIFUL—The so-called "tailfeathers" of a peacock are not really retrices, or true tail feathers, but tail coverts. It is the tail coverts, not the true tailfeathers, which constitute the great ornament of the peacock. (Reference—Encyclopedia Britannica, or the Standard Dictionary.)

Rained out almost totally last Saturday, the Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League will make a new attempt to initiate action this afternoon. With Section I grabbing off an open date over Memorial Day weekend, the warriors of the Second Division will monopolize attention, complete program of tussling being carded in the lower group.

Sam Keller's powerful Duquesne Library host, ensconced in the loop lead by virtue of a 4-3 margin over Canonsburg a week ago, will invade Howard Moore's College Avenue domain in what looms as the banner event of the bill.

Meanwhile at Washington Heights, the strong Edgewood Seconds will collaborate with the Ferrick outfit in a fray that will house, round out the proceedings on the latter's lot.

Tom Barber and his Geneva College racquet stars celebrated Memorial Day by garnering a 4-2 triumph over Gant Siverd's Dukes.

By virtue of their victory, the Covenanters clinched the Tri-State Conference net championship and thereby terminated the five-year sway of Westminster in conclusive fashion.

Stewar Snodgrass, home freshman ace, proved the hero of the engagement for the Genevans. The youthful stylist, cavorting at No. 2, got off to a bad start in singles against Rene Bullion, Duquesne driver, but flashed form reversal after dropping set one to grab the ensuing pair of brackets.

MOORE VICTOR.

NORWICH, Conn., May 31.—(AP.)—Gus Moore, running under the colors of the Brooklyn, N. Y., harriers, easily led the field of 72 runners yesterday to win the National A. A. U. 10-mile championship run. Moore has been of the national cross-country champion for two years.

CUP TEAMS SPLIT

SCHEVININGEN, Holland, May 31.—(AP.)—Czechoslovakia and Holland divided the first two matches of their third round Davis Cup tennis tie yesterday. Hans Timmer of Holland defeated Karl Koseluh, 6-1, 6-3, 6-1 but R. Menzel evened the score for Czechoslovakia by defeating A. Diemer Kool, 8-2, 6-3, 6-2.

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER

Well, folks, we're still hangin' in that first division. Jule has to do a lot of jockeyin' to win half of our games with so many laid up, but Paul and Erv ought to be ready soon and that will make some difference.

I'm gonna repeat again, folks, that you gotta hand it to Jule for not lettin' his spirit drop. There's more than one manager who would come into the clubhouse hangin' crepe after losing some of the games that we lost with our stars out, but Jule doesn't crab unless somebody fails to hustle.

CHEERING SECTION LIGHT

When we started in to play one of the games yesterday, there was only about four or five of us left in the dugout and a few in the bullpen when the team took the field. I guess some of the cripples were in getting treatment from Doc Jorgensen. Anyhow, there was just a few of us along aside of Jule when he turned around and said:

"What's coming off here—is this all the cheering section I have? Well, fellas, let's give them a battle." And everybody kept poppin' off all through the game.

Everybody on the bench was pullin' for Frenchy to finish yesterday. I think Jule woulda given a week's pay to see him go the nine innings and Frenchy went eight and two-thirds, but Walker socked him for that homer. Ray had all kinds of stuff yesterday even if they did get to him in the last two innings.

Jule was watchin' him like a hawk and before he started out to pitch the ninth, the boss asked Frenchy how he felt. Frenchy said he felt fine and he did have the stuff on the ball. His control was just far enough off to get three and two on Walker and then he had to come through with one and Curt parked it. But Frenchy

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Just like a couple of country boys trying to get along in the city, the Pirates and Reds swap punches this afternoon in the last championship contest scheduled at the Oakland Orchard until June 18. After playing the Cubs in Chicago tomorrow, the Buccos will hustle home to take on the world champion Athletics in an inter-league tilt, the Enismen to leave for the East Monday night.

Larry French is all set to face the Rhinelanders this afternoon, Dan Howley is expected to use Eppa Jeppa Rixey, veteran lefthander.

The two clubs divided the two contests that made up the holiday program. In the morning the invaders took advantage of the very loose play of the Oaklanders to win decisively, 9 to 1. The Howleymen threw quite a scare into the home supporters before they submitted to a 7 to 6 setback in the afternoon.

Frenchy Kremer carried a five-run lead into the eighth inning of the last contest of the holiday, but Kremer was missing and the enemy had the tieing marker on the sacks when the contest ended. Homers over the left field wall and into the right field stands by Joe Stripp and Curt Walker gave the Reds four tallies in the eighth and ninth frame.

SPENCER SAVES GAME

Glenn Spencer, who has taken Steve Swetonic's slab relief role, laved the contest. Stripp singled on top of Walker's sock into the rightfield stands and Joe represented the tying runs. Harry Heilman was at the plate. Skipper Day put Evar Swanson on first to run for Stripp and Spencer relieved Kremer. Glenn put the first pitch over the plate and the dangerous slugger hoisted a high one to Bartell to end the game.

Larry Benton, erstwhile Giant, could not withstand the powder in the Pittsburgh bats as he opposed Kremer.

The Pirates teed off on Benton in the third. Grantham and Comorosky singled and Traynor tripled into the right-center pocket. Archie Campbell relieved Benton. Traynor scored in the inning on Hemsley's sacrifice liner to Callaghan. Mosolf's single in the fourth was followed by a wild pitch and Grantham came through with a double, Mosolf scoring the seventh and last tally. Campbell and Si Johnson blanked the home foe for the remainder of the game.

BUC PLAY LOOSE

Leon Chagnon was the victim of the Pirates' loose play in the morning game. Leon did not allow a hit until the fifth, when the Reds scored four times, partly on account of bad support. More loose fielding by the Buccos led to four more Cincinnati markers in the seventh.

Chagnon, however, had small chance to cop his game, in view of the smart work of the Reds' sorrel-topped battery—Red Lucas and Johnny Gooch. Lucas pitched like a master from start to finish.

The two Nashville citizens seemed to have the weaknesses of the Pirate batters well catalogued, the sole home score being the result of a lucky hit off the bat of Chagnon.

Nick Altrock Says:

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—It's the old-timers that keep us at the top of the American League heap. I mean guys like Sam Rice, Joe Judge and Sad Sam Jones, and of course not overlooking your old Uncle Nick. Rice came to the Washington club right after the battle of Chickamauga in exchange for an infielder and two Northern spies. Joe Judge was playing baseball when the famous Baltimore Orioles were only eggs. And of course you remember Sam Jones. The Yankees let him go to avoid paying him a pension, but Sam is pitching for us like a Boy Scout. Yep, they say that youth will be served, but the service this season is terrible.

AL FAY, CHARLEROI HEAVY, RING 'PHENOM'

MOTHER PLACES STAR WITH KEARNS

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Folks, step up and meet Al Fay, of Charleroi, a real heavyweight hope.

He's a younger brother of Harry and Ray Fay, who have been boxing for some years, and quite the most illustrious of the trio.

At 22, this 6-foot-1-inch giant already has made such big strides forward that critics about the country are raving over his prospects. He is managed by Jack Kearns, who gained fame as the developer of Jack Dempsey and now is the pilot of Mickey Walker, the middleweight champion.

Little is known about Albert Fay in these parts except that glowing reports have come back home from big cities in which he has appeared. At this writer's request the boxer visited the sports sanctum of your favorite newspaper yesterday to give an account of himself. He has been home visiting his folks in Charleroi for several days and leaves tomorrow for New York.

AIDED BY MOTHER

The story of how Al Fay happened to become a protege of Kearns and his steady advancement is in itself a romance of the ring. As a youngster, he was intrigued by the mitt sport, being attracted to it by the fact that his two brothers were active participants in it. He worked out frequently with them and also with Cuddy DeMarco and Willie Davies and others in the Charleroi gym that has been the cradle of so many good boxers. Finally he decided to go into the game on his own account, and, after engaging in one amateur bout in Cleveland, he confided his ambition to his father and mother. His mother, anxious to have him get the best possible handling, after having seen her two older sons give their best to boxing only to be halted short of greatness, decided that she would take a long chance and interest Kearns in his career. She wrote Jack and the latter arranged for an interview in New York. There, Harry Fay, who had boxed Young Stribling and many other stars, introduced Al to Kearns and the latter agreed to take the tall, strapping youngster in tow.

TRAINS WITH WALKER

For three months Kearns put Al through a series of training sprouts against good men in the gymnasium, including Walker, Bud Gorman, Frank Montagna and others, before he cut him loose in a bout. Making his debut as a professional in a preliminary to a bout between Walker and Armand Emanuel in Los Angeles, a year and a half ago, Fay won with a knockout over Dewey Nassy in three rounds and showed surprising form. Since then he has boxed all over the country. He defeated Tom Sayers, of Detroit, in six rounds; knocked out George Hoffman, former national amateur champion, in three rounds in Boston; won over Al Friedman in 10 rounds in Chicago; defeated Babe Hunt in 10 rounds in Tulsa, Okla.; knocked out Frankie Reese in one round in Chicago; drew with Big Boy Peterson in 10 rounds in the latter's home town, New Orleans, and recently he defeated Frankie Wine in 10 rounds on the Derby eve card in Louisville and knocked out Frankie Hans in five rounds in Detroit.

Some months ago, Al seconded his brother, Ray, against George Panka in a bout in McKeesport, and he would like to fight the Big Boy soon. A match between the pair would be a "natural" as a big shot and may be one of the features of the summer campaign here.

Al is not the last of the fighting Fays. A still younger brother, Marshall, 19, has a yen for the sport and may follow in the footsteps of Ray, 27; Harry, 25, and the 22-year-old "phenom," Al.

Between Rounds

Jimmy Dale, of Indianapolis, suffered the same fate as Pete Rizzo in his bout with Jackie Rodgers, of the North Side, at Riverview Park, Millvale, Thursday night, being technically knocked out in the second round when the referee intervened after two minutes of fighting. Dale had been floored five times in the first round by Rodgers' punches to the left side of his body, the short ribs being crushed. In the first round he had handily outboxed Rodgers and looked like a possible winner. The powerful body blows proved too much, however. Chilly breezes kept the crowd down.

In the preliminaries at Hickey Park, Ted Yarnley, of Monaca, technically knocked out Jack Murphy, of Milwaukee, subbing on short notice for Roger O'Brien, of the North side, in the eighth and scheduled last round of the semi-final. Murphy, taking a bad beating off of the way, Al Kirkwood, of the West End, upset the dope by technically stopping Don Frazier, Cuban, of the North Side, in the second round of the second bout, the referee calling a halt after Frazier had been floored five times for counts, three of the knockdowns coming in the first round, and Paul Rahier, of the North Side, was the victim of a bad decision which went to Nestor Faris over him in six rounds. Frazier was not himself and it seemed he had not yet recovered from the effects of his losing fight with Al Jordan at the Meyers Rom three nights before.

When Willie Davies and Black Bill meet in the main bout at the Meyers Rom next Monday night, will be their fifth plank-to-plank scrap. Bill has a 10-rounder at Philadelphia, and two 12-rounders in Havana, Cuba, were declared draws, with Willie admittedly having an edge in each. In their fourth meeting, Bill eliminated Willie from the flyweight tournament in New York.

HEARST TROPHY RECEIVED BY TARTANS

Formal presentation of the William Randolph Hearst silver placque and individual medals to the Carnegie Tech R. O. T. C. rifle shooting team were made by Harry Keck, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, at a ceremony in the trophy room of the Tech gym.

Tech finished third in the Eastern Division of the National competition, being nosed out by Lehigh University's second team for second place. The Lehigh first team won the division first honors, so that all of the awards in this group went to Pennsylvania teams.

Capt. A. S. Ackerman, commanding officer of the R. O. T. C. unit and professor of military science and tactics at Tech, and Lieut. Frank E. Cothran, coach of the rifle squad, accepted the trophy on behalf of the team. It will occupy a permanent place in the trophy room of the athletic association.

Individual medals were received by the members of the team with the exception of Donald Cuthbert, who was absent. E. J. McCloskey accepted on behalf of Cuthbert. Other members of the squad who accepted the medals were Paul B. Hudson, Bernard Scott, Frederick K. Beckert, Jr., and Leo Kasehagen.

JAYS, JOHNNIES WIN TWICE

Jeannette held its slender lead in the Mid-Atlantic League yesterday by defeating Charleroi in both ends of a double bill. The Jays won the first game, 2 to 1, and took the second, 8 to 3.

At Johnstown, the Johnnies stayed within half a game of the Jays by twice turning back Scottdale, winning, 8 to 4 and 11 to 6.

Fairmont turned in a double triumph over Clarksburg at Fairmont, winning in the morning, 7 to 2, and in the afternoon, 6 to 2. Wheeling, playing before home crowds, lost to Cumberland, 4 to 1 and 2 to 1.

ARNOLD WINS HOOSIER GRIND

INDIANAPOLIS, May 31.—(AP.)—Billy Arnold, youthful Chicago driver, won the 500-mile automobile race at the Indianapolis Speedway yesterday by 10 miles with a record smashing crowd of 165,000 cheering him to victory. Arnold won close to $55,000 in cash prizes.

Arnold led from start to finish, with the exception of two laps. He drove the entire distance, stopping only once in the two hundred and seventy-eighth mile to take on fuel and change tires.

The race resulted in the death of one contestant, Paul Marshall, Detroit, riding as a mechanic for his brother, Cy Marshall, Indianapolis. Their car, speeding nearly 100 miles an hour, smashed into a retaining wall on the north turn and jumped the track, falling 25 feet to the ground below. Paul Marshall died in a hospital of injuries. His brother is in a critical condition.

Half a dozen thrilling smashups kept the spectators in excitement. Early in the race, six cars were in a collision, but all drivers escaped serious injury.

William (Shorty) Cantlon, of Detroit, finished second. Louie Schneider, of Indianapolis, was third, five laps behind the winner. Louie Meyer, of South Gate, Cal., winner of the race in 1928, was fourth, with Bill Cummings, of Indianapolis, fifth.

Straight Heat Wins Mark Oval Races

The Schenley Matinee Club opened its 1930 season yesterday afternoon at the Oval before a banner crowd of 3,500, with a five event program.

In straight heats, Wack Fats took the trot, and Tramp Trim, Star Bingen and Symbol Rose did likewise in three pacing races. Real Worth, in the opening event, a trotting race, was second in the first heat, but came back to win the second and third.

YANKS, TIGERS SWAP STARS

NEW YORK, May 31.—On the theory that a change of scenery may prove beneficial, the Detroit Tigers and New York Yankees have completed a five-player trade, the biggest baseball transaction of the season. The Yankees have given up Waite Hoyt, veteran right-hand pitcher, and Infielder Mark Koenig for Owen Carroll, pitcher; Harry Rice, outfielder, and George Wuestling, infielder.

Hoyt and Koenig were mainsprings in the pennant winning Yankee machines of 1926-27-28, but Manager Bob Shawkey apparently believes they have outlived their usefulness. Both had been sad disappointments this this year, just as Carroll and Wuestling have been to Manager Bucky Harris of the Tigers.

is gonna win a lotta games that he finishes.

Them Reds are no setup even if they are in seventh place. Any time you think another club in the same league is easy money, get ready to take one on the chin. Howley's gang is fightin'. I guess Durocher made a wise crack to Charlie Moran in the mornin' game because Charlie went over there and put on a lecture that wasn't scheduled.

I'd like to play against the Athletics Monday, but I don't want to say anything. I suppose Jule will try hard to win that game, too, because he wants to get the team in the winnin' habit.

District School Stars Qualify At Chicago

Bill Bohlender, tri-state district scholastic 100-yard dash and broad jump champion; Spencer, Fifth Avenue, district high jump star, and Dunn, also of Grove City, javelin ace, qualified for the finals in their respective events at the annual interscholastic track and field championships at the University of Chicago yesterday.

Bohlender qualified in both the 100 and broad jump. He bettered 20 feet 4 inches in the jump and ran his heat of the "century" in 10 flat. Dunn hurled the javelin the qualifying distance of 165 feet, while Spencer cleared the trial height of 5 feet 10 inches.

They will compete in the finals today.

Long's Sport Comment

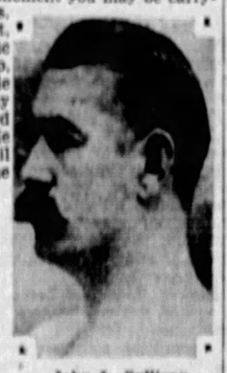
John L. Sullivan's belt. And at that very moment you may be carrying part of it around in one of your pockets.

For Ned Brown, New York boxing expert, reports that the famous trophy, emblematic of the heavyweight pugilistic championship, has been turned into real money by Uncle Sam. John L. himself turned it into money many a time under what has been called the sign of the golden masse shot. He pawned it here and he pawned it there until William Muldoon and other friends became tired of redeeming it for him.



John L. Sullivan.

EVENTUALLY, SULLIVAN hocked the diamonds that studded the celebrated bauble, and lastly the huge silver belt itself. A Baltimore man bought the thing and advertised it for sale. Nat Fleisher, who is offering a belt to the winner of the Sharkey-Schmeling fight, offered $600 for it, but the offer was refused. The Baltimore owner then sent the belt to the supervisor of the mint in Philadelphia. There it was melted into silver coin to the value of exactly $429. And that's the end of what became America's most famous sport trophy after Sullivan won it by defeating Jake Kilrain in 75 rounds at Richburg, Miss., on July 8, 1889. It was hung up by Richard K. Fox, Kilrain's backer, for that fight, which was the last heavyweight championship battle fought with bare knuckles.

DETROIT AUTO RACER WINS LOCAL EVENT

At the wheel of a Frontenac Special, Gene Haustein, of Detroit, finished first in the annual Memorial Day automobile race over the 100-mile distance at the Bridgeville Speedway yesterday afternoon. Haustein was clocked in 1:29.4, averaging better than 67 miles per hour.

In second place came Freddy Bianchi, of Pittsburgh, driving his own special, and Billy Schemp, also of Pittsburgh, was third. Bob Yingling, another local driver, was fourth. Six out of the starting field of 11 finished. A fair sized crowd witnessed the race.

Joe Baker, one of the six to finish; Burt Karnatz, of Detroit, and Haustein was racing axle to axle early in the race, but Karnatz and Baker developed engine trouble and failed to stay up in the running. Owen Truesdale, of Braddock, took the lead for a short time, but was unable to hold it to it.

There were no serious accidents, although Schempp, Joe Aldredge, of Finleyville, and Baker had narrow escapes when their cars skidded.

Lew Fonseca Out With Broken Arm

CLEVELAND, May 31.—(AP.)—Lew Fonseca, American League batting champion and Indian first baseman, suffered a broken arm Wednesday in the game with Chicago when he collided with Art Shires as Shires slid into home. Billy Evans, the Tribe's general manager, announced yesterday.

The announcement followed an X-ray examination of the arm. Fonseca will be out of the game for six to eight weeks, Evans said. During his absence Eddie Morgan will be used on first base.

A'S, ROBINS WIN TWICE

BOSTON PASSES GIANTS; BABE HITS 15TH

Associated Press.

In a pair of pennant races as close as those in the two major leagues have been through the early part of the season, the results of the double headers of Memorial Day came as something of a surprise. Eight pairs of games were played yesterday, only two were divided, while the rest figured to a considerable extent in shaking up the standings.

The Pittsburgh Pirates got an even break with Cincinnati. The St. Louis Browns and Chicago White Sox, deadlocked in games for sixth place in the American League figured in the other even break.

Cincinnati, with Red Lucas outpitching Leon Chagnow, took the morning game from Pittsburgh, 9 to 1. In the afternoon the Reds gave away a lead, then came strong, but lost 7 to 6.

The Chicago Americans had to go 10 innings to win the first game, 7 to 4, but they failed to give Ted Lyons proper support in the second, committing six errors, and the Browns pulled out a 4 to 3 victory.

ROBINS WIN PAIR

Brooklyn's slugging Robins accomplished the most in two games, going from a tie for first place in the National League to a two-game lead by beating the Phillies, 11 to 1 and 11 to 9. The Robins hammered out 27 hits in the two contests.

The Chicago Cubs refused to let their troubles get the best of them and took two games from the St. Louis Cardinals. They won the first, 2 to 0, behind Charley Root's fine pitching, but lost Rogers Hornsby, who fractured an ankle sliding into a base. But still Chicago kept on fighting and took a 10-inning afternoon contest, 9 to 8, going into a tie in games with Pittsburgh for third place.

The Boston Braves brought about another change in the National League standing as they took two 6-to-5 decisions from the New York Giants on late rallies. As the result of the double victory, Boston went to fifth place and New York to sixth.

A'S CHECK NATS

The Philadelphia Athletics clipped Washington's margin of leadership from three games to one by defeating the Senators, 7 to 6 and 15 to 11. The first game went 13 innings before it was decided.

The New York Yankees, getting off to a fine start as Babe Ruth hit his fifteenth home run of the year on his first appearance at the plate, moved into third place by a three-point margin by beating the Boston Red Sox, 6 to 5 and 7 to 3.

Detroit's Tigers broke the three-way tie for the top of the second division and sent the Cleveland Indians below the Yankees by winning a pair of games by scores of 5 to 2 and 9 to 6.

KREMER BATTED OUT

"BREAK" IN MORNING GAME

ROG HORNSBY BREAKS ANKLE

CHICAGO, May 31.—(AP.)—Pennant aspirations of the championship Chicago Cubs, already lowered by the sudden death of Pitcher Hal Carlson and a hospital-sized casualty list, were given another staggering blow when Rogers Hornsby, one of the greatest natural hitters in the game, suffered a broken left ankle.

The injury, which occurred as the Rajah tried to slide into third base during the morning game of the St. Louis Cardinal-Chicago Cub Memorial Day double header, will force Hornsby out of the game at least six weeks.

The Rajah will hobble on crutches out on to the field today to receive the 1929 "most valuable player" award. President John A. Heydler of the National League will present Hornsby with $1,000 in gold, and James Cruisenberry, of the Chicago Daily News, president of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, will hand the Rajah the gold medal which accompanies the award.

BREAKS RECORD

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—(AP.)—Stella Walsh, speedy girl runner from Cleveland, O., was announced as having broken the women's world record for the 100-yard dash yesterday when she stepped off the century in 10 4-5 seconds at the annual games of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

mark the debuts of both aggregations as league entrants. Alpha Kappa Psi will be at Canonsburg in another joust of newcomers, while West Penn Power will return to the fold after a couple of seasons out by entertaining Winnetonka. Two old-timers, Philadelphia Company and Westinghouse terminal combination in the East last fall.

GENEVA KEEPS TITLE

Len Friedman, Geneva's American Beauty javelin tosser, realized the ambition of his career yesterday as the Covenanter track and field squad, wonderfully well prepared and balanced, retained the Tri-State Conference championship it has held since the league was organized. Geneva took the annual meet, held at Reeves Stadium, Beaver Falls, with a point total of 82, far out in front of Westminster, annual runner-up, with 52½; Duquesne with 17½; Bethany and Waynesburg with 7 each, and Thiel with 3.

Friedman stole the show by heaving the javelin 201 feet, 3 inches, for a new district, Conference, Geneva and Reeves Stadium record. It was the first time the slender New Castle lad has been able to toss the spear 200 feet, and was all the more pleasurable to him as he recorded his toss in the last home meet of his career.

SIX RECORDS FALL

Six records were shattered as the Covenanters rang up their decisive triumph, and three of 'em by Genevians. Nulton, crack halfback, signalized his return to form by setting a new standard of 2:01.6 in the 880; Slim Ransom cleared 11 feet 6¼ inches in the pole vault; Roberts went over the bar (not into) in the high jump at six feet and Joe Pesci, Duquesne's crack runner, added the two-mile record to his mark in the mile by turning in a 10:14.9 race.

Harry Brownlee, of Westminster, although beaten by Evans, of Geneva, in the low hurdles, was the high point man of the day, winning the high hurdles and hammer, running second in the lows and placing second in the discus. He cleared the highs in 15.2 for a new mark.

Fair Thomas, Geneva's Negro sprint star, won the sprints and the 440, to finish one point behind Brownlee in the individual scoring. The Geneva mile relay team, composed of Nave, Brust, Nulton and Thomas was clocked in 3:35.6 in winning the event.

Sport Vignettes

A political friend suggests an investigation of the Senatorial situation in the American League . . . Can't see why Walt Johnson's Washington club should be kicking up such a ruckus . . . They're bringing the 1932 Olympics to Hollywood, hard by Los Angeles . . . The wise men of boxing finally are coming around to the sensible viewpoint that Jack Sharkey is a standout for his bout with Max Schmeling for the heavyweight title in New York less than two weeks hence . . . Little short of a miracle can win for Maxie, who lacks the necessary experience to cope with a foe of the formidable caliber of Sharkey . . . They're even criticizing Schmeling's training methods . . . Maxie doesn't go in for roadwork, substituting golf for this vital exercise . . . But you can't always tell by what a man, especially a heavyweight, shows or does in training. . . . Gene Tunney did things to suit himself . . . He believed a training camp was a good place to rest and store up energy for a bout, and who can say that he was wrong, in view of his marked success? . . . The Cleveland Indians look for their Earl Averill to be one of the big home run hitters when they get their home run screen cut down . . . He hit 18 of them last season . . . Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, says he wouldn't be surprised to see Sharkey knock out Schmeling in an early round, and Jimmy Johnston, who ballyhooeyed Phil Scott against the Gob at Miami last February, is of the same opinion . . . When Sharkey was introduced in Madison Square Garden, New York, the other night, the crowd for the first time forgot to boo him and made the well-known welkin ring with their cheers . . . That's because he's the "hope" of America against Europe in the forthcoming battle. . . . And also because his worth finally is being recognized and all of his former best "haters" are beginning to climb aboard the band wagon . . . How they do love to string along with a winner! . . . When you get right down to it, few modern heavyweights can boast a record to match Sharkey's . . . He has fought every leading man of his time with the exception of Tunney, and Gene pulled out of a match with him in Madison Square Garden . . . And don't forget that Josef Zuchowski, or whatever his real name is, took on both George Godfrey and Harry Wills, the black menaces, when no one else wanted to fight them and defeated both.—HARRY KECK.

SIDNEY OLCOTT IN RACE JAM

YORK, Pa., May 31.—(AP.)—When the Memorial Day races scheduled for 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon were postponed because the racers who had entered the 100-mile event failed to make an appearance, the 3,000 fans who had gathered at the York Fairgrounds took exception and stormed the ticket offices in an attempt to get their money back. The race was being sponsored by the International Auto Racing Association.

To those on the grandstand their money was refunded, but despite the shouts and threats of the mob, they were unable to get the money they had paid for admission to the field, because the ticket sellers had left their places.

Sydney Olcott, of Pittsburgh, general manager of the racing association, required a police escort to leave the grounds, and was later placed under arrest by Sergt. A. P. Dalstrom, in charge of the local state police barracks, on a technical charge of false pretense, and held under a cash bond of $500, before Justice of the Peace John M. Emig, of West York. Mr. Olcott stated that the money would have been refunded but that the actions of the crowd made it impossible to do so, and that it will be refunded through the justice of the peace.

I. C. 4-A TRACK MARKS FALL

DYER BEATEN

The sprint fireworks of the day were furnished by flying Frank Wykoff, ace of the Southern California speed boys, who returned to the scene of his Olympic tryout triumphs of 1928 to outrace his Stanford rival, Hector Dyer, in the 100-yard dash semi-finals and equal the meet record of 9 7-10 seconds.

Curly-haired Eric W. Krenz, captain of the three-time championship Stanford team, also surpassed Rothert's former meet record in the shotput with a toss of 50 feet, 6¼ inches, to make it certain that the Cardinals would finish ½ in this event.

The wind, however, robbed Krenz of the honor of sharing further the record-busting laurels of the day with his teammate, for in his favorite event, the discus, Eric's astonishing heave of 163 feet, 8 inches was disallowed because of a favoring wind.

MEADOWS SHIFTED

ATLANTA, Ga., May 31.—(AP.)—Lee Meadows, former St. Louis and Pittsburgh pitcher, who came to the Atlanta Crackers a few weeks ago, yesterday was given his outright release by the Atlanta club. Chattanooga signed him shortly afterward.

Several long shots came across, among them being Patteran in the first; Shady Brook, in the second; Mercury, in the seventh, and Daulston's Disturber in the ninth.

At New Kensington, Kentucky Rose finished ahead of the field in the feature race, the tenth event. Tiny Joe, winning the fifth race, paid the best price of the evening, $22.40, $9.40 and $3.40.

Connie to Seek Waivers on Ehmke

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—(AP.)—Howard Ehmke, veteran right-hander of the Athletics and hero of the first world series game between the Athletics and Chicago Cubs last fall, apparently is on his way out of the majors.

Manager Connie Mack announced last night that the big pitcher would be given his unconditional release as soon as the necessary waivers are received from the other 15 major league clubs.

Should Ehmke be waived out of the majors it will mark the end of a pitching career which started in Los Angeles in 1914 and which includes 14 years in the big leagues.

Complications arise when the hired man returns and announces that someone made an attempt upon his life with a knife. It is then believed that his assailant was a Syrian pedlar who had previously called at the farmhouse and proposed marriage to the daughter.

The pedlar shows that among other things in his pack are steel knives. He talks glibly about how the Syrians use the knives for murder as well as for peaceful purposes. His aim states that in case of injury he would think nothing of killing his rival.

This statement so troubles the mother that she gives in to his pleas for the daughter's hand.

MODERN DRESS FAULTS LAID TO MOTHERS

Illinois Woman, Writing In Marion Davies Style Contest, Has No Doubts

HOLLYWOOD, May 31.—Responsibility for the "disgraceful" manner in which the modern girls dress was placed yesterday squarely upon the shoulders of their mothers by Mrs. A. Van, of Forest Park, Ill.

Mrs. Van's views were re-expressed in a letter, one of the hundreds received daily at the New Pantages Theater, Hollywood, in the Marion Davies Fashion Contest.

"The Florodora Girl," Miss Davies' latest motion picture, opens at the Pantages Theater on June 4, and it is that production which has caused a nationwide discussion of the styles of the gay nineties and present day ones as well.

DEEMS STYLES DISGRACE

Mrs. Van wrote:

"I think the way mothers let their daughters dress is a disgrace to both mothers and daughters.

"It is the mothers' own fault if their daughters go wrong.

"When I was a girl my mother taught me to dress so that I would look respectable on the streets.

"Do the girls do that now-a-days?

"I say not.

"I was riding in the elevated train one day and there were three girls sitting on one side and men on the other. One of the men said they did not have to go to a show for they could see a leg show all day now.

"I think that is a disgrace to mothers and daughters. I often talk to them and they say I am old-fashioned and I tell them they will see the day they will wish they were old-fashioned too.

" I am 84 years old and I would like to see the old styles come back."

TAKES OPPOSITE VIEW

Mrs. Van's opinions are not shared by Miss May E. Dillingham, of Syracuse, N. Y., who wrote:

"I can remember riding a bicycle and wearing a skirt that skipped the pedals sometimes and other times wound up in them.

"Anyone who would suggest going back to those days . . . has more crust than a pie factory."

SEES "SLOW SUICIDE"

Other letters follow:

All men and many women of my large circle of acquaintances are of the opinion that the present style of women's dress, from the low-cut stilts to the jack rabbit head-gear, are ridiculous, unbecoming, ugly and indecent, exposing the body to the roughest elements of the weather, often terminating in a horrible death. They are slow suicide!

They are uncomfortable, unhealthy, glaringly slouchy. There is no beauty left to talk about.

We all agree that women's present style of dress has got to go. She has put herself in the nude. There is nothing more to remove. Be assured the styles will either go backward or forward to a plain, common-sense dress. I trust the fair sex will regain its sanity!

ARTHUR N. SCHULTZ,
61 Fowler street, Port Jervis, N. J.

FAVORS CORSETS, BUSTLES

I really think that the old styles with corsets and bustles are the only worth-while fashion! Why? Because a woman who wears them respects not only herself but the general public.

The styles now are a disgrace to the commonwealth. I also think that petticoats and underwear should be worn in the winter—also long skirts.

EDWARD H. MACDONALD,
326 S. Sumner St., West Summerville, Mass.

PITTSBURGHER WRITES

After all this talk of freedom of legs, I believe we have more freedom with long skirts. First, because we can reach for a strap in a street car—or sit down—without showing our underwear! We can have bowlegs and still feel safe in these present styles.

Long dresses make shrimps feel stately, make stout women look thin. The thin ones can wear ruffles and give

CHICKIE By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER XCIX.

Then she was lying in a bed. Jennie came with a tray. She said gently: "Chickie, dear, drink this; you must be strong."

And there were voices—the house was filled with voices. Jennie was standing near saying, "Get ready, dear." Like a sentence of doom as though Chickie were in the death chamber and it was her mother—no other than her mother who came and drew the black cap down. She stood, holding to the bureau—trying to straighten her hair—trying to find a glove that lay directly before her.

Then she listened to the voices and a shock went through her. For the voice was saying: "Don't let her worry. It will be all right. We'll see to that."

She must be raving—she must have lost her mind. For she fancied the voice was Jake's. He was talking to her father—and Jonathan listened and seemed to grow rugged again.

A step—light, elastic—an arm about her. Oh—she cowered—she drew back. It was Jake. Talking to her—rich, mellow voice—gentle—confident—

"Don't be afraid, Chickie my dear. I don't want to bother you. But don't be crushed by this. Too bad. I came to tell you something—tell you that it will be all right. I know Dr. Emerson—know him well. I phoned this morning. It's a shame—bringing you into this. Case of professional jealousy.

"Ricks is the coroner—never loses a chance to block the doctor. You see, the doctor is a newcomer and has stolen all his thunder. It's a small-town feud. They've brought you into that—"

Though she wouldn't look at him—though she couldn't steady her lips to the forming of a single word, Jake took her hands that were so cold in his warm, firm clasp. He said:

Jake Is Kind

"My poor little darling—don't worry—no one will think of this, Chickie, my dear. That's why I came. You mustn't want to hide away. Look here—I have a friend in Rutland—a lawyer—brilliant fellow. He has business all up the valley. I've asked him to step in there this afternoon. Do as he says, Chickie. Answer as he tells you to. It will be all right—yes, it will. Your friends won't change."

She knew that the black, flashing eyes were full of sorrow—they went kindly over her blanched, still face. He pressed her hands—he lowered his head and kissed them. He said softly: "They won't hurt you—we won't let them do that—"

He was gone.

"Would I let you go alone? Do you think that, Chickie girl—your old dad?"

So they went.

In the morning papers it was blazoned out. Helena Bryce had a child and it was dead. They were taking her back to Vermont to see why it should die, why she had run away—

Glad to Get Away

Oh, blessed release to get away from that! escape the murmurs and the questions. They sped along. Never return. Go on and on. No crueler thing could happen now. Walk through that town and let them all come out and fling their stones. She might even turn pathetically and smile, feeling no added bruise. No added hurt could reach her now.

So she thought and listened, uncaring to the loquacious comfort the sheriff kept turning to offer on the long train trip. "Nothing to worry about. Just a mixup between that there new doctor and the coroner. The girl's bound to come out all right."

The inquest was set for 2:30 the next day. They reached the little town at dusk—stole in so quietly that only the clerk at the hotel and two or three loungers sitting on the rail of the porch knew who had come. The sheriff got a room for them.

The door had scarcely closed. It opened. Chickie didn't stir until a strange voice said: "I beg your pardon." A man had stepped to her side, handed her a note.

She let it lie in her hands. "I'll wait for an answer."

Mechanically she opened it. She read this: "Chickie, see me for a moment. I want to say a word. I'm waiting near. You have several hours. Give me just a moment. Chickie don't refuse this. Don't make me do more harm than I've done already."

She folded the bit of paper in a measured and aching slowness.

No Answer

She forgot the man waiting there. He said: "There is an answer."

She shook her head.

"You would feel sorry for him"—

"Ho—yes." She clasped her hands, twisting the pale fingers. The man shifted uneasily.

Finally he asked: "Have you counsel for tomorrow afternoon?"

She repeated dully: "For the afternoon—why do you ask these things of me? Ho—there is no answer. None." She got up and faced him, rocking a little, but smiling: "Will you go? Kindly go." Her cheeks were bloodless, whiter than her lips.

The man said hurriedly: "Pardon me—I beg your pardon. Have you given his name?"

The man left then. Chickie stood there swaying, repeating in a soft, broken wildness: "Ho—his name—ho"—

His name—she wouldn't have spoken it to save her soul from doom. She couldn't have forced her lips to bring the sound—

Yet it added to her shame; it left no slightest beauty even in a memory. It added to the loneliness.

Inquest Started

So that when Jonathan tried to make her eat the next morning she half wondered that even Jonathan should care.

Oh—but he did. He drew her to him, raised her face as he had in other times when its beauty was his joy. He raised it, saying: "Chickie girl, remember, I want you to stand up there—proud now, my girl. I want you to be brave. No tears—not one."

She pulled her face away. She said: "Yes—oh, my, yes!"

But he kept whispering things like that as they drove along, stopping before a house newly painted—white and austere.

The front parlor of the coroner's home served as the undertaking place. Here was the inquest. The room was packed—warm, heavy with many breaths. Someone edged toward her—caught her hand: "This is a shame, Mrs. Clayton. I regret this deeply."

It was Dr. Emerson.

Chickie mumbled: "Thank you."

Someone came up and put an arm about her; someone said: "Dearie—dearie—"

The coroner, big, raw-boned, bull-necked, walked in with a hushed, ceremonious air. He took a chair at the long table.

Emily Faris, the nurse that Chickie had sent away when she had carried off the baby, was called to the stand. Emily Faris didn't look at Chickie.

CLEOPATRA VERSUS FOLLY

Drawn by NELL BRINKLEY

WHICH DO THE MEN vibrate toward in any place, at any time? Dolly—or Cleopatra? Thais—or Dotty? Daisy—or Delysia? Betty—or Badroulbadour?

Sweet publicity, or the black orchid of subtlety?

You dare not answer that quick, right out of hand, without applying a bit of thought to it. In fact, you can walk all the way to the Inn of a windy night, have your hot negus beside the fire until all hours, thinking hard all the time; trudge home again, still thinking, and so to bed—to lie awake a bit and think some more. And when morning comes perhaps you still won't be wise enough to up and say, "Daisy, by gum, is what a man likes the best in the end!"

Or, "Don't you believe, my dear, that just a bow of powder-blue ribbon at the instep is all that a man looks for in the world. A bit of Cleopatra, my dear; a bit of mystery; a shy look that veils the thoughts; a strange hair-do; a dress different from the rest. That's what the roving eye alights upon, when Dolly has been talked baby-talk to and strange worlds are beginning to perfume the air?"

Does anyone know? A wise editor sits beside the firedogs of a spring night, smoking gently, and says: "The bow of ribbon at the instep is a powerful thing. Simplicity, childishness, innocence, daintiness—all are tied in the bow. And bows are back. All men say this. That it is the Dollys and the Daisies and the Bettys of the world that he really gravitates to from all others. He SAYS that; but if there is a Cleopatra type in the room he seems to wind up there!"

Maybe the solution is what most girls really are anyway—only a maid should dress the part. Bows and real innocence, with a dash of Cleopatra. A half-and-half girl. A Cleopatra look out of forget-me-not eyes. A Cleopatra necklace above a shepherdless frock.

And, above all, don't forget the bows!

How to Keep Well

Ivy Poisoning Spoils the Holiday

In the early days of summer we all look forward to walking in the fields and woods seeking wild flowers. Among the friendly flowers and plants, there is one that is a positive enemy to men. This is "poison ivy," so-called. Its scientific name is "Rhus Toxicodendron."

DR. COPELAND

Every lover of Nature should know something about botany. To know the names of the wild flowers and plants, and to be able to recognize them on sight is a real pleasure.

The poison ivy plant may be just a little shrub, two or three feet high, or it may stand as high as a man's head. When next to a stone wall or tree it grows as a vine.

You should not be ignorant of the identity of the plant. It will save you much suffering if you are sure to avoid contact with it. It has a bright green, glossy leaf and is made up of leaves in groups of three or, as the botanist will tell you, it is "trifoliate." The stem of the middle leaf is always longer and two or three times larger than the stems of the other two leaves.

A suggestion was recently made that we have a "Kill the Poison Ivy Week." That isn't a bad idea. If poison ivy could be eliminated how much more pleasure everyone would have in roaming the countryside.

Like other weeds and plants, poison ivy spreads easily. It is necessary to get rid of it at the source. It is a plant whose roots extend underground so far that it is laborious work to fight it. To get rid of it the fight will have to be carried into private as well as public grounds.

One effective method suggested for exterminating this ivy is to grub it out by the roots. But, as has been suggested, this is dangerous for the grubber unless great care is taken.

The first thing noticed after exposure is a burning and intense itching of the skin which has been touched. There is redness and small blisters form. As they increase in size and number they may become infected. In some cases there is fever and prostration.

The poison is usually carried by the hand to the face. Sometimes the face becomes greatly swollen and the eyes may become affected.

If you have been out in wild places, pushing in and out of the wild shrubs and vines, it is just as well to wash the face and hands upon your return, using plenty of soap and water. Sometimes the poison does not show its effects for a day or so, so do not wait for unpleasant symptoms.

Alkaline solutions are good for local applications in ivy poisoning. Among these are baking soda, borax of ammonia in water. A weak solution of carbolic acid is also good. Hyposulphite of soda is also a good remedy when made into a solution with water. Apply any of these remedies frequently to the affected parts.

Quick Work Clears Away All Trace of the Marauders

A faint ring as of a bell sounded deep in my consciousness as the telegraph operator at the Bridgehampton station repeated the name of Mrs. Samuel Brixton as though he already had heard it.

"Yes, Mrs Samuel Brixton," I repeated slowly. "Do you know it?"

But he was not to be caught napping.

"It sounds somewhat familiar," he said guardedly, "but we have so many names. You wish this to go as a night letter, I suppose."

"If you please," I said with outward composure, but trembling inwardly. I should get nothing more out of him. I knew, but I was also conscious that his repeating of Mrs. Brixton's name would trouble me whenever I thought of it.

"This calls for an answer," he said, after reading it over. "Do you wish me to telephone it when it comes?"

"Yes, but please give it to no one except my father, Mr. Spencer, or myself," I directed. "My mother-in-law, Mrs. Graham, is somewhat hard of hearing, and the maid is not very expert in taking down long telegrams, as I think the answer to this will probably be."

"I see," he returned, making a notation on a pad of paper at his side, "and I will see that no one else receives it. Your charge is—" He named a sum which made prudent Mrs. Ticer gasp.

I paid the charge and with Mrs. Ticer climbed again into the car, which I drove swiftly to The Larches, finding Jim and my father waiting for us on the steps.

"Remember, my dear," he said to me, "that until the Brixtons arrive you are not to come down here unless either Jim or I accompany you. I want you to remember that too, Mrs. Ticer," he turned with authority to my neighbor. "Do not work here unless your husband or son is with you until the family arrives."

"I'm not apt to," Mrs. Ticer retorted a bit tartly as she looked around the disordered room. "Jerry Ticer will have to help me with this mess—that rug's got to be scrubbed and put out, and it's as heavy as a bed to move. And the one in the next room is just as bad. Then if this Mrs. Brixton takes this house and wants cleaning done I'll have to have both my men folks to help me. I can't possibly do it alone. So I can promise what you want very easily. But what am I to report to Mr. Halset on this?" she asked worriedly. "I'm afraid he'll blame me for it some way, he's awful fussy and unreasonable, if anything goes wrong with a house he's agent for, although he's an awful good man, too."

"Then it will be a good idea to say nothing at all, don't you think?" my father asked with a smile. "If there's anything broken or spoiled, I will pay for the replacing of it. I will also pay for any work done in cleaning up this mess. No," with an authoritive hand raised as she broke into voluble protest, "I have reasons for wishing to do this, and for keeping this matter of the intruders from everybody's knowledge including that of Mr. Halset. No possible harm can be done by your silence, and to rouse the agent up to a fussy investigation might do great harm to some plans of my own."

"Well! I'm sure glad of that way of fixing things," Mrs. Ticer said with a relieved sigh. "But I'm afraid Halset may take a notion to come snooping around to look things over."

My father and I looked at each other in consternation. Then he spoke briskly.

"Kindle a fire in the kitchen stove, Jim, and put some water on to heat. Then come back and help us here. If we all pitch in we can get this mess cleared up in no time."

But with a housewifely wisdom gained from experience I put in an amendment.

"It will take too long for the water to heat," I said, "and we ought not to risk Mr. Halset's possible passing and seeing the smoke."

Horoscopes

Saturday, May 31

A very lively state of affairs is foretold from the interesting lunar configurations, but progress and prosperity may be nullified by a tendency to engage in quarrels, strife and turbulent actions generally. With this impulse held in check affairs should prosper and be gratifying financially, especially of those activities, in which letters, writings and publishings are dominant.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of good opportunities for progress and prosperity.

A child born on this day should be clever, talented and ambitious, but may tend to be wilful, strongminded and quarrelsome.

Sunday, June 1

Sunday's horoscope is a most interesting one, promising lively conditions and much stirring about. There may be an important removal or journey, possibly in connection with employment or in pursuit of fresh adventure.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a very important year, with radical change or travel, and with employment and new ventures under most encouraging auspices. There may be trifling annoyances and monetary losses.

A child born on this day should win success and position by its own industry and ingenious effort.

Monday, June 2

Monday's astrological forecast holds several adverse planetary aspects, frustrating the best endeavors and subjecting affairs to an influence of deceit, misunderstanding and fraud. However, with these menaces safeguarded against, there is some prospect of financial advantage.

Those whose birthday it is are in line to make some financial gains and beneficial associations during the year, providing they are on guard against deception, fraud and misrepresentation or slander.

A child born on this day should be ambitious and talented, and fairly fortunate and successful.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Wearing Long Gloves While Dining

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you kindly tell me if it is proper, when one is attending a banquet and dance in formal attire, to keep long white kid gloves on all evening, even when eating and dancing? Of course, I mean with the hand of the glove rolled up and just on one's arm?

ANNE.

While you are dining, you should remove the gloves—remove them, not turn in the hand of the glove. During the dancing, you may either wear them—this is the more formal thing to do, of course—or not wear them, as you wish. Or you may wear them during the first part of the evening, and later, when after much dancing, it is not so comfortable to wear them, take them off and leave them with your wraps. In any case, it is not attractive or in good form to turn in the hands of the gloves.

Well-developed women should wear a bust supporter. Not only for the sake of a trim figure, but to protect the delicate glands of the breasts. A properly fitted brassiere should be worn by every woman who is more than normally developed.

The Talking Picture Story of

"CAUGHT SHORT"

Starring

MARIE DRESSLER
POLLY MORAN

Based on

A Cosmopolitan Production.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Jones, whose squabbles nearly had ruined the romance between Mrs. Smith's son, William, and Mrs. Jones' daughter, Jenny, did nothing but bill and coo, after the stock market crash had robbed Mrs. Smith of her paper profits, and stopped Williams's marriage to Fanny Lee, a designing actress. With their mothers back in the boarding house business again, Jenny says:

"I don't know anything about stocks, but I can show you how to get into a nice little corner in the parlor."

"Whole wheat," she says blushing sweetly.

"I'm glad to see you're practical as well as beautiful, my dear," William says proudly. "A family raised on whole wheat is a family that isn't going to miss any vitamines."

Once in awhile time hung heavy on Mrs. Jones' hands. On one of these occasions, she took Mrs. Smith by the throat and said:

"Now say 'Ah'."

But Mrs. Smith did not like to be taken by the throat, and what she said was not:

"Ah."

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Jones are happy now that they have become grandmothers.

"Buying milk for a baby, isn't a bad investment," Polly says.

"Speaking of investments," says Marie, "let's start a savings account for the baby right away."

"I swapped that book on how to make a fortune on the stock market for a Mother Goose," Polly says.

"Not that there's much difference between 'em," says Marie.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Weddings in Long Island And Fairmont, W. Va., Of Interest Here

So bridal is the last day of May that one would think June were already here. Two particularly notable weddings of marked interest to Pittsburgh society are taking place today, one in Westbury, L. I., and the other in Fairmont, W. Va.

Bridal Party

First of all I'll tell you about the ceremony in the East. Marion Moore, who has visited her aunts and uncles, the Thomas A. McGinleys and the Cyrus R. Millers, of Sewickley Heights frequently, is the bride, and John W. Cross, Jr., of New York, son of John W. Cross and the late Mrs. Cross, is the bridegroom.

The wedding is taking place this afternoon in the Church of the Advent, Westbury, L. I., with the Rt. Rev. Ernest M. Stires, bishop of Long Island, as officiant.

Marion is the daughter of the Edward Small Moores, of Westbury and New York, and the granddaughter of Mrs. John H. McGinley and the late Mr. McGinley, of Pittsburgh, on the distaff side.

The church is decorated with a profusion of spring flowers and ferns, with white flowers on the chancel. Garden flowers from the Moore greenhouses deck the "Gables," the Moores' Long Island estate, where a reception is to be held after the wedding.

The bride, who is being given in marriage by her father, is wearing ivory satin in the empire mode, and a veil of tulle and rose point, and she is carrying small white orchids.

Fannie Moore, as her cousin's maid of honor, is wearing green organdie and lace with an organdie hat of green, and carrying yellow orchids. The bridesmaids, Barbara King, of Chicago; Muriel Hedges, of New York, and Fredericka Frelinghuysen and Marie Bois, of Scranton, are wearing yellow organdie frocks and yellow organdie hats, and are carrying small yellow orchids.

H. Page Cross is his brother's best man, and Edward Small Moore, Jr., the bride's brother, Oliver M. Wallop, younger son of the Earl and Countess of Portsmouth and brother-in-law of the bride; John T. Adams, Daniel Catlin III, Kimberly Cheney and James Hopkins Smith, III, all of New York, are the ushers.

The Thomas A. McGinleys and the Cyrus R. Millers are among the Pittsburgh folks at the wedding.

And another spring wedding of interest to Pittsburgh folks is taking place this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in Christ Episcopal Church, Fairmont, W. Va. The bride is Mary Moulds Hurst, daughter of Mrs. William J. Weigel, of Fairmont, and the late Dr. Harry Hurst, of Pittsburgh, and she is marrying the Rev. John Williams, Jr., son of the late Rev. John Williams and Mrs. Williams, of New York. The Rev. Robert S. Lambert is the officiant.

Church Wedding

The bride is wearing a gown of white satin, with long court train, and a veil of tulle and old rose point. During the ceremony she is carrying a prayer book, but at the reception in the Fairmont Country Club she is carrying a bridal bouquet of spring flowers. Her maid of honor is Mildred V. Robinson, also of Fairmont, and the bridesmaids are Margaret Johnson, of Washington, and Martha Dickerson, of Fairmont, wearing gowns of pastel green net with matching horsehair hats, and Martha Haymond and Amela Bennett, of Fairmont, wearing pastel blue net and horsehair hats.

Small Betty Stoetzer, daughter of the John J. B. Stoetzers, of Fairmont, and Sally Crammer, of Sommerville, N. J., daughter of the Clarkson Crammers, are flower girls, and are wearing embroidered voile frocks and yellow organdie hats.

Winslow Little, of New York, cousin of the bridegroom, is the best man, and the ushers include Alan B. Gilmour, of Brooklyn; the Rev. Richard Pressey, of Grantwood, N. J.; Edward M. Mize, of Kansas City, and Harry Owen, of New Haven, Conn.

Marry In South

A color scheme of green, blue and yellow is being carried out in the decorations and flowers at the church and the country club. After the reception, the Williamses are leaving for a wedding trip and later will make their home in New York.

And several Pittsburghers are attending the wedding. Among them are the J. W. Pauls and Margaret Paul, Mrs. J. F. Torrence, Margaret Murray, the Tiersol Murrays, the Oliver C. Hursts, Vida Hurst and Oliver C Hurst, Jr., and Mr. Hurst's brother-in-law and sister, the W. C. Coffins, of Miami, Fla.

The bride, I happen to know, is a granddaughter of Mrs. William Moulds, of Fairmont, formerly of Beaver, Pa. She attended the Winchester School here and is a graduate of Vassar College, and is a charter member of the Fairmont Junior League. The Rev. Williams is a graduate of Trinity College and of the Episcopal Seminary in New York. His ordination, I might add, took place last Sunday.

The Frank Cordeses and Margaret H. Cordes are in New York to meet Ethel Cordes, who is returning from a world cruise. They are expected home by the first of the week.

Travel Notes

Eleanor Mann, daughter of Bishop and Mrs. Alexander Mann, has returned home from Boston where she's a student at the School of Fine Arts.

Mrs. John M. Phillips will go East to attend the commencement of her daughters' and son's schools. Mary will be graduated from Vassar and Anna Jane from Columbia with a master's degree. Jack Phillips is a student at Phillips Andover Academy.

And still other travelers that I can tell you about today are Capt. and Mrs. Cyrus R. Miller, of Sewickley, who are in Gotham and are visiting at the Savoy-Plaza. And at the same place are Mrs. Allen T. C. Gordon and Gretchen V. Schoonmaker, who arrived there but recently.

And now there will be another event soon to attract society folks. And it is the first annual dog show of the Greensburg Kennel Club, an event of July 12. And the show will be at the polo field in Greensburg, and is for the benefit of the American Red Cross. Margaret Coulter is president; Joseph D. Wentling, vice president; Mrs. John Barclay, Jr., secretary, and Elizabeth Bovard, treasurer. On the executive board are C. Gill Watt, Thomas J. McTighe and William A. Coulter.

Kennel Shows

And of course, don't forget, the dog show sponored by the Sewickley Kennel Club, for the benefit of the social service department of the Allegheny General Hospital. The affair, as you know, is taking place on June 28 in the show ring of the Allegheny Country Club. And Mrs. William C. Robinson, chairman of the auxiliary, has appointed Mrs. Maitland Alexander chairman of the gate committee. Mrs. Alexander L. Robinson and Mrs. B. F. Jones, III, are on the dog chance committee and Mrs. Robert Milligan, Mrs. Harvey Norton Van Voorhis, Mrs. Henry Rea, Mrs. B. F. Jones, Jr., and Mrs. A. Marshall Bell are to be in charge of refreshments.

And Virginia Willock has been apopinted chairman of the junior committee group, which is to have charge of the program and advertising of the show. In charge of the cups to be awarded are Mrs. Christian I. Shannon, Mrs. James H. Childs, Mrs. William B. Trainor, Mrs. Carroll R. Davis and Mrs. George F. Patterson. Mrs. Thomas A. McGinley and Mrs. Sidney S. Liggett are on the candy committee, and Mrs. Lewis A. Park and Eleanor Kelly are in charge of placing the dogs.

And the horse show, which is to begin on Thursday, will be followed by extensive entertaining during the week end. And on Sunday, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Milligan and their daughter, Peggy, will give a luncheon in their Sewickley Heights estate for the horse show exhibitors, and the affair is to be in honor of Anne King Scott and John H. Ricketson III, whose wedding, as I announced recently, will take place on Monday, June 9.

June 25 is the date named by Miss Catherine Ellen Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Francis Wallace, of Thomas boulevard, for her marriage to Albert Joseph Monahan, of which will take place in the college chapel of Christ the King, Sansbury Hall, St. Mary's of the Springs, in Columbus, O. Mrs. Thomas Joseph Feeney will be her sister's matron of honor, and Paul Emmett Reilly, of Altoona, Pa., will serve as the best man.

Ohio Wedding

Miss Marie Aquina Birkle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Birkle, of Brownsville, Pa., has named her wedding date as June 12, when she will marry Francis Gallagher, of Brownsville. The ceremony will take place at 9 o'clock that morning in St. Peter's Church. The bride's only attendant will be her sister, Miss Dolores Birkle, and James P. Breen will be the best man.

There will be a wedding breakfast after the ceremony and Mr. Gallagher and his bride will leave on a tour of the east and Canada. They will live in Brownsville when they return.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Divine Providence Academy, Pittsburgh, and of Beckley College, Harrisburg, and is a member of Phi Delta Beta Sorority.

Literature Department Honors Retiring Head, Mrs. Jaegle, at Lunch

Marie Tello Phillips Jaegle, to honor whom the literature department of the Congress of Clubs gave a luncheon Wednesday, introduced her successor, Mrs. Herbert Van Kirk, at the luncheon. Mrs. Van Kirk, who is president of The Scribblers, a member of the Bookfellows Library Guild and of the Poetry Society, accepted the office when Mrs. Jaegle resigned after heading it for 10 years.

Every speaker at the luncheon lauded the honor guest, her personality, her gifts, her influence, especially with "unarrived" writers, and the faithfulness and ability with which she has served the department. Mrs. Lillie Reed McMaster, on behalf of the department, presented Mrs. Jaegle with a basket of "larkspur and roses," which happens to be the title of one of Mrs. Jaegle's poems.

Mrs. Chester F. Johnston read an original poem in tribute to the honor guest and other speakers were Mrs. Ralph W. Johnston, Congress president; Dr. N. A. N. Cleven, of the Bookfellows; Mrs. Ralph S. Davis, editor of the Congress Outlet; Dr. Mary McKibbin Harper and Mrs. Dulcie Fiske Fairman. Mrs. Fairman included in her talk a list of Mrs. Jaegle's publications and a biographical sketch showing her illustrious Castilhian ancestry.

Dr. Harper, who came on from Chicago for the luncheon, told interestingly of her last summer's visit to Greece and Turkey, where she had gone to officially inspect the American women's hospitals. Asked for a word concerning her impressions of India, Dr. Harper said her sympathies were with the Indians, but it would be a sad mistake were England to withdraw completely from the country. India, then, would probably fall a prey to all the surrounding nations, she thinks.

TWINS FREE AT BABY MATINEE

The "Baby Matinee," which the Stanley Theater and the Sun-Telegraph are giving tomorrow at 3 o'clock for the children of the Pittsburgh district, had Mrs. Morris B. Bass, 304 North Graham street, puzzled today.

According to the rules governing the performance, any parent carrying a baby will be admitted. But Mrs. Bass has two babies, twins, and her husband is away. Must she carry both babies?

She was told she could let the kiddies walk in, and officials are telling parents who have twins, triplets or quadruplets to bring them all along. The show is for all babies of the district.

The "Baby Matinee" is being given to introduce "Family Month" in all the Warner Brothers theaters—a thirty-day program of exceptional entertainment and unusual events.

The show is also being presented to find out how the babies will react as they watch their first "talkie." Since the advent of sound and dialogue productions, a strict rule has been in force at all theaters prohibiting the admittance of children in arms.

LIGHT WEIGHT WOOLENS ENDORSED BY TRAVELERS

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, MAY 31.—Many couturiers here are showing coats that are destined to see much of the world. These coats are the kind of practical wraps that are chosen by women who are experienced globe-trotters who can thread their way through the mysteries of any railroad timetable. Such women choose travel clothes that are smartly practical, comfortable, light in weight and yet warm. Not for them the suit, however good looking it may be. Their choice is the smart coat, usually of tweed, beautifully cut, ample and roomy and yet trig of line. Such a coat will do yoeman duty whether worn on board a ship, on a train, a plane or a car, and emerge from its travels unwrinkled and serene. A frock of light weight woolen usually is worn beneath such a traveling coat, often of a matching shade or of the color of the fur, should the coat be so trimmed. Fur trimmings for tweed travel coats are generally of the flat variety, beaver, galyak and astrakan being the favored pelts.

THE CLASSIC TAILLEUR continues brightly on its way being welcomed by old friends and making many new ones. The present version of the tailored suit is particularly good for it retains the necessary line and simplicity of detail and adds several features that are new and yet quite in keeping with the traditions of the garment. Of these, the short coat distinctly nipped in at the natural waistline, is the most important note. One of the smartest versions of the tailleur is being shown by Worth and so we are pleased to send you a sketch of his conception of that perennial garment. The model sketched here is in black and white tweed with a coat that is short and nipped in at the natural waistline. Wide box-pleats stitched half-way down give width to the skirt, making it practical for walking. The blouse designed to be worn with this suit is of pastel blue jersey.

AS THIS IS travel time, we think that you will find much to interest you in the very attractive yet practical traveling coat shown by Doeuillet-Doucet. Following the tremendous success of beige combined with brown, the material is a light weight tweed mixture in these two shades. The long scarf and the sleeves are bordered with beaver. The silhouette is straight, however, the coat is amply wide and is wrapped about the figure, an always important and advisable point about a garment intended for long journeys or short trips.

Alice White's Grandma Goes East, Followed By Her Husband

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, May 31.

Alice White's grandmother decided it high time she traipse home to Patterson, New Jersey, and see her grandchildren. She wanted her husband to go, too. He wouldn't. Why go East when California is enjoying lovely weather? Mrs. Alexander Alice's G. M., went just the same by boat. Now the Alexanders have been married 46 years. But they have their harmless little spats all the same. Alice smiled. The day Mrs. Alexander arrived in New York she received a wire from her husband. He was leaving by train that night. Alice is vacationing herself having finished "Widow in Chicago."

AT THE COURTS

The local motion picture tennis tournament being played at the Los Angeles Tennis Club has been the highlight of several chuchly incidents.

For instance Cedric Gibbons, a smart tennis socker, met Crauford Kent in mortal combat. My reporter said that for a set and a half Crauford had Gibbons on a merry-go-round and then suddenly Gibbons discovered what was wrong. Kent is a left-handed player. Gibbons figured that he was smashing his returns to Crauford's backhand. Which he would have been doing had Crauford been a right-handed socker.

And then there's the one about Mauri Grashin matched to play William DeMille, who is aces with the racquet. Grashin, however, won by default, which amazed everyone for as Grashin admits, DeMille could beat him over the telephone."

"How come?" a puzzled bystander asked in the locker room.

"Oh, it was easy," confided Grashin. "I just called Bill and asked if we couldn't settle this outside the courts!"

MARY ASTOR IN "ADIOS"

I see that Mary Astor has corraled the lead opposite Richard Barthelmess in his next talky, "Adios." Mary is her 'old self now. While making "Holiday" with Ann Harding et al she was on a mauled milk diet. Drank tons of the stuff. Oke, now.

Howard (Modiste) Greer now in New York en route to Paris, writes:

"So far it doesn't seem as I'd left Hollywood. Kay Johnson got off the same train I did, and Buddy Rogers is staying in the same hotel. Claire Windsor was in the elevator when I started for my room and I met Nancy Carroll and William K. Howard at 'Berkeley Square' in the evening. Afterwards, I saw Lil Tashman and Eddie Lowe getting out of a taxi with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Van Vechten. So, after all, in one day that's almost as many Hollywood lights as you'd expect to see in the home town."

'Tis, almost.

LAUGH RIOT, THAT'S "CAUGHT SHORT" IN PENN

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

The Wall Street crash has crashed into the movies and the result is the talkie "Caught Short." It is a glorious, galloping comedy. The laughs fly faster than the hoofs of Paul Revere's horse ever did.

The film opened yesterday in the Penn and it had holiday audiences in an uproar. Those two comic ladies, Polly Moran and Marie Dressler, dominate the whole affair. And those girls are screams, they are.

They appear as two rival boarding-house keepers, who take a fling at Wall Street and learn that American cheese may be good cheese, but it's bad stock.

THE GRANDMOTHERS

The film has a romantic angle put there by Charles Morton, in the role of Polly's son, and Anita Page, in the part of Marie's daughter. When the mothers quarrel, it looks like the romance is to crash just as the stock market does. Only it doesn't. The happy denouement comes at a swanky Atlantic City hotel and, later, the final fadeout, with Polly and Marie disporting themselves as grandmothers and hurling a sample box of American cheese at a surprised groceryman.

Chuck Riesner, the director, knows comedy values. And his efforts, coupled with the performance of Marie and Polly have made "Caught Short" a riot of laughter.

THE STAGE PRESENTS

Dave Apollon, Russian entertainer tops the stage revue, which, appropriately enough, is titled "Russtantics." He is the master of ceremonies and the star. He dances, he sings and he displays a sense of humor that is keener than that generally associated with his race. He is a real showman. A clever adagio dance team, the Royal Filipino Orchestra, several featured steppers and the Chester Hale Girls are prominent.

Dick Leibert is at the organ and during his music-making he lets out the news that he is soon to leave our town.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

Man About Town

"Dear Mr. Winchell," writes a nurse of the Carnegie Hospital, Cleveland, O. (whose name is omitted here because it is none of your business). "It is one a. m., and you are hunting the secrets of the Great White Way. I have night life, too, but oh, how different! You take the pulse of the gaiety-mad crowd and listen to moaning saxophones in an expensive night club, while I take the pulse of those that have had to stop from life's grand march for a while, and listen to the moaning of those who are ready to take that longest journey of all.

"What wouldn't I give for just a two-week slice of that life that you call yours, and forget the worries and the problems of the sick-room. To smell exotic perfumes instead of ether and disinfectant. I've never been on Broadway, and never expect to ever get there. Fairy tales just don't happen in real life, and that certainly would be a fairy tale.

"I am weary and discouraged and blue, and hate myself and the world in general and crabby mothers of patients in particular. Nurses are supposed to feel lofty and noble, but—you can believe it or not—they don't. I really did not write this to tell you my troubles, but to tell you why I and others like what you write. Because it gives us a glimpse of the make-believe land, the fairy-tale land of the working girl's dreams.

"It takes us around the corner and lets us peep into the magic box called Stage, and see the glamorous personalities that occupy it. Because we are in awe of those whose names are in electric lights, we like to find someone who isn't and dares to say so.

"I suppose that from this letter you'll consider me a sentimental idiot or some silly thing with a school girl crush on you—but I'm neither. I am old enough to know what I am doing is very silly, but what is the difference, for I never expect to meet you. I've lived long enough (oh, not so terribly long, Mr. Winchell) to quit believing in fairy tales and Santa Claus. I'm no old maid or a bachelor girl, either, for I've (how do you say it?) 'middle-aisled it,' and I've told it 'to a judge' five years ago.

"Isn't human nature grand? Are you bored to tears, or don't you know what tears are? They are a watery secretion of lachrymal glands, slightly salty to taste, that runs down from the corner of your eyes, and makes your nose red and cheeks white, and wrecks your appearance in general.

"And, Walter Winchell, the glamour of Broadway may be tinsel to you, but have you ever noticed how pretty tinsel looks from far away and in electric lights?

"This is my first fan letter and I suppose it will be my last, for I don't often get brain-storms like this. Wishing you luck, success and happiness. Sincerely yours."

Dear Nurse: I print your letter, sans your name, because I believe that your letter will interest the young men and women who, like yourself, think they would be happier if they could swap jobs with me. A managing editor of a newspaper once said to Paul Whiteman (when Mr. Whiteman was starring on the Ziegfeld Roof):

"What is there about this Broadway column stuff that you like, if you read it at all. People seem to want it. What's there to it?"

Mr. Whiteman later told me what he said to the editor:

"I read it," replied Mr. W., "because it offers information about people I know, but I imagine others are interested because nine out of ten people are fascinated by the theatrical profession and the newspaper game. Winchell writes about newspapermen and actors and actresses. Nearly everyone at some time or other has aspired to be a reporter or has been stage-struck. He takes them behind the scenes."

Mr. Whiteman's theory interested me a lot. I never thought of that angle before. And I never thought of it again until your letter came. You are one of the crowd that gets a kick out of the drivel I jot down, because the grass on Broadway looks greener to you out there in Cleveland, where you probably have trees and other genuine things.

The only tree in the Broadway Sector, nurse, is in the backyard of a Forty-sixth street speakeasy. But you probably don't care about trees. You want to hear the moaning of saxophones in expensive night clubs, you say, instead of the moaning in the sick-room. Why, nurse, haven't they any saxophone fiends in Cleveland? Surely Cleveland has its Rudy Vallees and its expensive night asylums. When I hoofed it ten years ago at the Keith-booked theater in your town—Cleveland appeared pretty gay to me.

You say you would rather smell exotic perfumes instead of ether and disinfectant. I don't doubt that, at all, nurse. But haven't you any chums, pals, or anyone out in Cleveland who do their whoopeeing after hours? And why are you not invited to join them? Are you a party-spoiler or what? Really, my dear, we have very little on Broadway that you haven't in Cleveland. And that goes even if you came from Madison, Wis.; Huntington, W. Va., or from the other towns in which this pillar of chatter appears.

At any rate, your proposition interests me. I like my job, nurse, because there isn't anything else I can do to make a living, but I would like a change from the so-called "playground of the world," too. It is wearying me a little, honey. When it was all new to me, I got quite a kick out of it, but I can't keep up with the pace set by some peasants who infest Broadway. I come in contact with so much treachery, so much cut-throating and so much two-timing, that I am a little discouraged, also.

The gangsters I know on Broadway believe me, nurse, aren't half so bad as most of the "honest" natives. The gangsters know that I couldn't do anything to keep their illicit activities out of the paper, and they know that I wouldn't try to do so, anyway. The "honest" mob is the mob I fear. The spurious men and women who go to any extreme to bask in the spotlight for a brief time, or to fatten their purses. Some day, when I write the book I contracted to write a year ago, maybe I'll be very interesting.

So, I am considering your proposition, nurse. It depresses me, as it does many others, I suppose, to visit a hospital, but it might give me another angle on people and things. I'm so tired of the locals who fail others when the crisis comes. Tired of observing the counterfeiters from my boxseat. And I'm not having (how do you say it?) a brainstorm.

I've written these things in magazines before, but the mob imagines I'm gagging, because there's coin in it. And this is a good time to get it off my chest, again. And to repeat a favorite crack: The honest people on Broadway may be counted on the hands of Venus. Everything goes—from murder to blackmail. And, lady, I know! So I'm warning you! If you want the Broadway lights, you've got to take the Broadway lice. You see, stranger, we have very little on Broadway that you haven't in Cleveland.

HEROINE'S SONG SETS RUSSIA AFLAME IN WARNER

"Song of the Flame," another of those technicolor movie operettas, is filling the Warner screen. It is all about the Russian revolution, which, somehow, in movie form, is more like a music festival. But then, as cited before, the film is an operetta.

The central character is a peasant girl, a sort of Joan of Arc. She sings a song and all Russia bursts into a flame of anarchy. Then, she is sorry she sang, for, when the revolution comes, she finds herself in love with a prince.

Bernie Claire is the heroine and Alexander Gray is the hero. And all their heroics are said with song.

The production has a lot of elaborate and extravagant scenes. It boasts of some rousing music. But, for some reason, you wish the hero would do something besides sing. And you wonder, hopefully, if technicolor will ever undergo a revolution. Certainly, there is a lot of room for improvement in its "natural" colors.

FANNIE BRICE SINGS; PINCHOT TALKS IN ALDINE

By HOWARD L. BROWNING, JR.

The Aldine Theater opened yesterday with a program which should amuse many Pittsburghers during the coming week. Fannie Brice heads the bill in "Be Yourself," a back-stage comedy not without the customary tears and whimpers.

This time, Fannie is in love with a boxer—a dumb boxer. Following the Dempsey-Tunney precedent, our hero has bout after return bout with his rival. They both spend their evenings in the night club, where Fannie is mistress-of-ceremonies. And then there's a gold digger.

Fannie's songs and cracks, of course, make the show. Harry Green, remembered from "The Kibitzer," is good for a laugh or so. The dances and songs are good, boasting a decidedly modernistic flair.

You will long to take a South Seas expedition as you watch the flicker pass across the sheet. Mr. Pinchot, Mrs. Pinchot, and young Gifford, their son, do descriptive talking.

CLARA BOW AND NAVY IN STANLEY AND ENRIGHT

By MILDRED FILLMORE

Clara Bow is in the Stanley and the Enright in her latest talkie, "True to the Navy." The Pacific Fleet comprises her supporting cast. The picture isn't very much on story and it zig zags all around in its quest for laughs.

The It Clara, as heroine, has a toy friend on every battleship. And, naturally, when the fleet all comes in at one time, she finds herself in one grand "stew." But everything turns out all right.

The funniest thing in the film is Harry Green, the comic, in 1-ing soda straws in a free-for-all battle in which a half dozen sailors participate.

At that, the production does have a lot of laughs. And there is one the movie-makers hadn't planned. It is Heroine Clara shouting a song.

Dick Powell comes out on the Stanley stage, all dressed up in cowboy pants, and presents a diverting show, "The Dude Ranch." The star of the whole affair is the blackfaced Jannip Richardson, who hops around like a Belgian hare and dances like the dancing fool that he is.

Burns and Kissen, comedy lads, send the house into an uproar with their songs and chatter. The Darling Twins, incidentally, the only girls on the stage, sing a bit and do a few steps. The Rangers, a men's chorus, and Charley Davis waddle around in their chaps and spurs and break into song now and again.

David Broudy and his musicians say patriotism with music in an effective Memorial Day overture. Bernie Armstrong, small in stature but big in popularity, puts the organ through its usual weekly paces.

Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: An economist proposes that, as machines replace men in industries, working hours will be shortened to take care of unemployment problems that would otherwise develop. What do you think of the plan?

MRS. EVA PRAGG, dress designer, downtown: I think the plan will be most effective. I don't think, though, that machines will ever supplant men to any serious extent during the lifetime of anyone now living. Perhaps in 100 years or so, this might be the case.

Mrs. Pragg

M. ROSENBLOOM, musician, Overhill street: The proposition that this economist puts forth is indeed pure food for thought. Under its activities, all worker would be given a chance for existence. I think bread lines would disappear if it were carried out effectively.

M. Rosenbloom

B. DRAWN, saxophonist, East End: I'm in favor of anything, no matter who proposes it, that will relieve unemployment. I don't think we, in this day and age, will have to worry much about it, but it is best to be on the safe side and be prepared.

B. Drawn

LOUIS GASPER, artist, Oakland: If such a situation ever exists, then such an economical plan is the only one that I know that would be plausible for coping with the existing situation. Everyone would get a chance to work under its stipulations.

Louis Gasper

FRANK WILSON, Sheraden: Yes, I agree with the plan. Henry Ford is working out a similar plan now. His plan calls for shorter hours and more liesure time for his workmen. He probably realizes what is coming in the future and is making his plans accordingly.

Frank Wilson

T. DAWN, artist, downtown: If the machine age is to reach such serious proportions, this economist's plan offers a possible solution to the employment problem. I think it is most effective. Working hours will have to be shortened.

Miss Dawn

Will Rogers Says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 31.

Just been down to the Soldiers' Home at Sawtelle, flags flying, and old men and young marching. This is quite a day with them. We are getting everything so well organized that everybody that has done something for us. Why we very liberally allow them a day.

Free room and board and a day's speeches a year ain't hardly all we promised 'em at recruiting time, but they are good sports and take it good naturedly, and keep on speaking to us. They just got time to sit and read our minds. They must just pity us. They know we will have the same old "bologna" to hand out to the next bunch, to keep our investments intact. (Although we don't call it investments. We tell them it's democracy). Yours.

GIRL UNAFRAID

By GLADYS JOHNSON

Granny's Questions Make Ardeth Feel Uneasy

CHAPTER XLV

NEIL flung open the door under the stairs. "Look, Granny—" he cried. "See who I've brought!"

He pushed the girl before him into the kitchen. The room was shadowy as she remembered it. One stove lid had been removed and tongues of flame played about the opening, lighting the room with a red dusk. Hunched over it, gazing down into the fire's heart, was Granny Burke.

At the sight of the girl she gave a little shrieking cry and rose with a swiftness surprising in one so old.

"I—I gave the day! You don't—you think me you've brought a girl back again!"

She quavered. Is it your old sweetheart [illegible] you bring in? Come close, my dear, let me see you. My eyes aren't what they used to be.

The smile stiffened on Ardeth's lips and she checked a backward movement. She forced herself to stoop and brush the old woman's face with her lips.

But when she would have seated herself on a chair opposite Granny pulled her down beside herself.

"Sit where the light falls on you, dearie so I can see you. Lawsy me, what a grand young lady you've come to be."

Ardeth Uncomfortable

"It do indeed." The little gray head nodded vigorously. "Many the time I missed you, my dear. The house is so still now. Some Roosians livin' upstairs." She sniffed distainfully. "Not like it was in the old days—with you an' the lad scamperin' in an' out after school botherin' me for bread an' butter. Och, the pretty pair of sweethearts you made—him so dark an' you so fair. He's never had any girl but you, dearie, though there's many the one set her cap for him. . . ."

Nodding and winking shrewdly. The wrinkled hand patting her knee, less. Ardeth had the curious conviction, through affection than to feel the quality of her dress.

She crushed the thought as unworthy. She forced herself to be bright and friendly. Turning her gaze from Granny's shriveled face to Neil's brooding black gaze watching from the shadows opposite.

She answered Granny's pointed questions as easily as possible, and all the time within her mind was growing a feeling of dismay. She had the impression of moving through a vaguely unpleasant dream.

The old magic was gone. What had been a haven from Aunt Biel's acid tongue was a stuffy, untidy kitchen. What had been a dame of fairytales had become only an old woman who pawed her unpleasantly and smelled of onions.

Memories Freshened

She tried to stifle the disloyalty. This was shameful—they liked her . . . they were loyal to her . . . But they made her self-conscious, between them. Granny's too pointed questions, Neil's devouring gaze. She looked into the red heart of the fire and tried to smile.

She spoke of the shop, keeping up an amusing string of anecdotes about the customers, and while she talked she was busy with memories. She was watching the ghost of a slender girl moving through the room—a light-hearted girl who dreamed amid the hardships of this house, a girl delighted merely to go riding with Neil in his cut-down auto on Sundays. Would she have been happier, had she stayed here? Ardeth wondered. Happier if no Ken had come into her life to fling the shadow of loneliness over her heart?

The old woman's voice was rambling interminably.

"I knew they couldn't keep you, with their fine clothes an' high talk. Don't you be losin' heart, I told the boy here. She'll get tired of her rich friends. She knows where she belongs, that one, I told him. She'll come back in the end to her real sweetheart, I told him . . ."

"Oh, Granny!" Ardeth protested.

The high old voice broke into a cackle. "Blushin' she is because I hit the truth! Why, my pretty, who could be readin' your heart if it wasn't old Granny?"

Unhappy and embarrassed, Ardeth avoided Neil's burning eyes.

"She's young. I said to the lad. Carried away she is by their soft ways, but she'll be back. Nigh to breakin' the true heart of my boy, you were though. . . ."

Neil Sorrowful

"Why, laddie!" she went on with the innocent stubbornness of the old, "who else should be sayin' the words to bring my pretty pair of sweethearts together if it isn't me. . . ."

Ardeth rose, suddenly stifled. A trap . . . this shabby kitchen, with its alternate bursts of light and shadow. . . .

Neil, I must go! Can't you—can't you make her understand!" There was a nervous shake in the tone she tried to make light.

Neil stood upright looking very tall in the red light. His eyes were strangely still. Yes . . .

Yes you must go."

Out in the dark hallway she tried to gather herself together. It's been good to see you again, Neil. I'll come again—soon.

He was valorously indefinite in the gloom but she felt that he shook his head. "No." His voice held that new flat note. "No, you won't. Ardeth, I guess I understand—now I saw there was no chance. I never had a chance. You've gone away from me.

Tries to Hate Her

Her heart was sore with his sorrow. "Don't say that, Neil. Old friends mustn't lose sight of each other. We—we've known each other so long—"

"We're not friends, Ardeth. I can love you or hate you. But I can't be friends. You've gone away—away beyond me. I saw it before but I wouldn't believe it. It isn't clothes. Or even the different way you talk. It's you. Yourself. That—that other fellow—he got you away from me and you won't come back."

The quick tears of sympathy were stinging her eyes. "Oh, Neil—" She groped for his arm.

He snatched it away. "I told you it was either love or hate," he said fiercely. "I'm trying to hate you! Go away—go away!"

A nightmare it had been. Good to be out here, free and alone in the fresh wind. Feeling the cool air on her wet cheeks. Seeing the stars. The dark autumn night was grateful.

A nightmare—Neil left back there in the red nightmare with old Granny. Poor Neil . . . "But I can't!" she was crying desperately in her heart, "I can't . . ."

'Class'

"Th' trouble with th' Cherub is, he ain't got no class."

Scoot Moran, leader of an East Side gang known as the Night Hawks, nodded sagely as he made this remark to Zip White and Sam Long.

They were in Bert's place which housed an antiquated pool table and cigar counter in the front and an up-to-date bar in the rear.

Zip White had suggested taking Peter Hutton into their little circle that was about to reap a profitable and ancient racket known as the "Benefit Rag."

Peter Hutton was called "Cherub" because of his plump, rosy cheeks and his guileless countenance. Peter was born down in that district and brought up in the noisy streets with Scoot, Zip, Sam and scores of others, many of whom were now in the Night Hawks.

In a way the Cherub considered himself to be one of the gang. He ran about with Scoot and the others, but he was never let in for any of the big rackets.

Now when Scoot Moran gave it as his opinion, which was generally an ultimatum, that the Cherub had no class, he did not have in mind anything to do with education, morals or social position. He meant that the Cherub had never shown any ability as a nervy gangster, no ingenuity and cleverness in inventing or helping to work the many 'rackets' that brought in the coin enabling the active members of the Night Hawks to exist according to their standards of luxury without visible means of support.

Scoot had revived that ancient but profitable gag known as a "Benefit." The Night Hawks had a small club, three rooms with pool tables and a card table and in the back room some weights, punching bag and mismated Indian clubs, all to give it the semblance of an athletic club.

Some Risks to Run

But for the "Benefit" gag a phoney organization was used. They had tickets printed. These tickets varied. Sometimes the legend on the yellow cardboards would be to the effect that on such and such a night there would be a grand charity dance for the benefit of the families of the sick and unemployed members of the Unity Club. This would be held at Rickert's Ball Room at such and such an address.

There was no such club as the "Unity." There was no such place as Rickert's Ball Room. The address would either be a lumber yard or a garage.

Certain members of the Night Hawk gang would go about among the many small merchants and sell these tickets at five dollars per each, the tickets admitting "Gent & 2 Ladies."

The tickets sold readily among the wise ones. The purchasers knew that there was no such organization or hall and that no event of any sort would take place. But they bought because they were wise. If they didn't buy, something would happen. Their shop windows would be smashed or sidewalk exhibits suddenly ruined. If they didn't buy the next week there would likely be a fire in their place or perhaps the proprietor would be robbed or beaten.

If the merchant had a very small business he was asked to take but one ticket. If he prospered he would be expected to take five or 10. If he was ever fool enough to complain to the authorities he couldn't prove anything and he got into a lot of "hard luck" from then on.

"Yeh, 's right," Zip White agreed. "The Cherub ain't got no class, he lacks the noive to take chicken feed from a blind beggar, but he asked me to ask you could he get in on this racket, so I told him I would."

"How'd he know?" Scoot demanded.

"He's wise, all right."

"Aw, let him ride, he ain't gonna hurt nobody but he ain't noivey nor clever enough, hey boys?"

They agreed.

They mostly agreed with Scoot.

When the Cherub saw Zip he eagerly asked him about it.

"Scoot says we got all we can use, Cherub," Zip said, evasively, "but you'll be in on th' next deal."

Everyone liked the Cherub and hated to hurt him. They usually stalled with mild lies.

Cherub muttered some profanity one would have believed impossible to come from the owner of so cherubic a face. He was more deeply disappointed than he cared to admit.

Proposes to Mayme

There was a woman in it—as per usual.

This woman was a girl of 18 in years and of 30 in experience. Mayme Dugan was a "looker" and Cherub had long been anxious to make her his woman.

"Onno level, Mayme," he had said only a few days before, "we'll get spliced up all regular."

"You're a nice kid, Cherub, but you ain't knockin' down no dough. I gotta dress, ain't I? I gotta have class. I can't go round with th' bunch lookin' like a rag doll."

"Aw, I'll get along. I'm in th' gang, ain't I? There'll be swell pickin's for me pretty soon."

"Scoot Moran says you're a friend of th' outfit, Cherub, but you ain't in on th' make. You ain't got their class for noive."

"Is that so?"

"Sure that's so."

"Says you."

"Says me."

"I got a swell dump, ain't I?"

"Sure, you got a lot of swell furniture an' stuff your old uncle left you; but them old-fashioned things, them books an' chromos don't put no mink wrap 'round Mayme's shoulders, do they, Cherub?"

"Aw, now Mayme, I'm goofy about you. I'd treat you swell. Get me right—I want to marry you."

"I heard you and that's all."

"I'll show you, Mayme."

"Atta boy Cherub. You show me and I'll make that trip down to City Hall with you."

"All right, you said it. I'll show you."

Such conversations had been frequent of late. Cherub was unusually downcast, therefore, when Zip announced that Scoot felt the same as ever, that Cherub didn't have the stuff in him to do the real clever and nervy gang work and he in on the profits. This got to Mayme Dugan's ears and set Cherub back more than ever. Probably Happy Harry Lawlor, who always had a big wad of yellowbacks, would grab her off.

Mayme went to the Daisy Night Club with Happy Harry. Happy had his own car—it had been his own ever since he picked it up in a Connecticut town, had the numbers filed off and the paint changed. He had plenty of jack.

Cherub was more bitter than ever.

Mayme Surprised

It was the Monday following that Mayme saw Cherub with a tall, pale man who was dressed extremely well. The man was looking in Hanlan's pawn shop window. Cherub was talking with him. Mayme listened.

"Well, all I want is to be sure that you own it—have the legal right to sell it," the stranger said.

Zip White came along. Mayme winked at him and indicated Cherub and the stranger.

"Sure I own Battery Park," Cherub declared.

Mayme almost swallowed her chewing gum. Zip winked at her. They stared in the side window. Cherub was so eager that he did not notice them.

"Well, I want it. I'll pay your price, four thousand, but only on condition that you prove to me that you have the right to sell me, or anyone, Battery Park," the stranger insisted.

"All right, come up to my rooms, Mister; come up with the four grand in cash, no checks, and I'll show you th' papers."

"Oke with me, Mister."

The stranger moved away. Cherub stared after him and then hurried on his own way.

Zip and Mayme stared at each other. They crossed over and went into a hallway that led to the rear room of Bert's place. Scoot Moran was there—with a couple of others.

"Horse feathers," was Scoot's comment.

"Onna level," Zip said, with a chuckle. "Me and Mayme heard him swear to th' sap that he owned Battery Park an' would show papers to prove it. He's gone up to his flop to phoney up some papers and th' sap is gonna bring him four grand in cash."

"Where? I could use that—"

"Nix, Mayme, nix—Cherub's too dumb. He lacks th' noive to pull this thing. I'm gonna help him."

The Old Bridge Game

"When he asks for it. I got a hunch Cherub is all class. He pulls swell stuff like that. He don't monkey with sellin' benefit passes for a finnif. You lay off," Mayme insisted.

Scoot hung around. He saw Cherub meet a stranger like the man described. He saw them disappear. A little later Cherub and the stranger returned. Cherub headed down to Mayme's quarters and the stranger hailed a taxi.

That evening Cherub and Mayme were over at the Daisy Night Club. Scoot Moran dropped in.

"Couldn't work it, hey?" Scoot asked.

"Work what, Scoot?"

"Anything as phony as that—nobody is dumb enough to think they can buy Battery Park—nobody ain't sold Brooklyn Bridge for 20 years—"

"Like that, eh? Somebody told you? Well, I sold the sap Battery Park and got my four grand—take a squint," and Cherub displayed the money, a thick wad of century notes.

Scoot Moran stared in admiration at Cherub.

"Kid," he said, "I got you wrong—you sure got class. We need you for big highbrow stunts. You're on the inside with th' Night Hawks now if you wanna come in."

"Sure do." Cherub said. "Come 'round tomorrow night, Scoot, with the whole bunch. I'm throwin' a party. Me an' Mayme's gonna be married tomorrow."

"Shake."

They shook.

Cherub went home around dawn for happy dreams. He never explained that the Battery Park he sold was a painting he had left uptown to be valued, a painting of the park made in the days when Jenny Lind sung at what is now the "Fish The-ayter."

They drank many toasts to Cherub and his bride the next night. Scoot Moran's toast was one word. Lifting his glass to indicate Cherub, he said:

"Class."

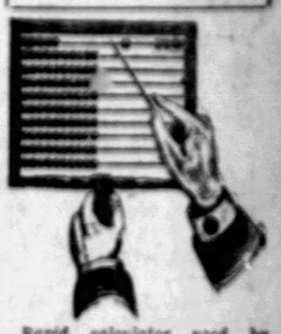
WATCH FOR THE FRISBY FLASH!



Rapid calculator used by Congressman Frisby to keep track of laws he has observed during Frisby Law Enforcement Drive.

Sharply at midnight tonight the Frisby Law Enforcement Drive will come to an end. Congressman Frisby will flash the lights on his porch which will be the signal for a general rejoicing. Everyone is urged, at this signal, to shake hands with someone, and exchange business cards. As previously announced, every bona fide citizen will then forward to Mr. Frisby a confidential memorandum, telling just what laws he or she has observed during the week. Mr. Frisby will go carefully through the data, and decide which laws are the most popular. He will then endeavor to pass more laws of this nature between now and next year when the next drive will be held as usual.

Pact Foes Fight Wars, Critics Stay at Home

The New York World has become the organ of President Hoover's delegation to the London conference.

The World expresses the indignation of President Hoover's pro-British representatives against the admirals who are still loyal to their country. On Wednesday the World said:

"It is high time that somebody in authority told these admirals down in Washington where to get off.

"For weeks they have been allowed to do the unheard-of thing of challenging the judgment of their political superiors and causing the gravest embarrassment to the foreign relations of the United States."

Oh, yeah? Well, it is these admirals who must fight the next war as professionals. The amateur statesmen intent on creating an inferior American navy will be safe at home, beyond the age when they could be called or used in service.

The World is strong for the constitution and the American form of government, and this same constitution makes the Senate the treaty-making power of the United States. Still the World objects to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee passing upon the treaty intelligently and getting the honest advice of the only known experts on the supremely important subject of the future defense of our shores and our commerce.

Our constitution gives the President only the power to negotiate a treaty and makes his delegates nothing but a group of clerks who write and bring back to the Senate a draft agreement which it is the Senate's business to accept or reject, entirely as it pleases.

How the Senate proceeds to inform itself on the merits of this draft agreement is none of the President's business.

But the World ignorantly maintains that it is his business, and says he should muzzle the admirals.

"They should be stopped now, and so decisively that our neighbors will understand they do not speak the views of those who control American policy."

As a matter of fact those who do control American policy, as far as foreign relations are concerned, are the Senate and the people of the states whom the Senate represents.

The President does not "control American policy." Nobody knows yet what are the "views" of the Senate and the people who do "control."

Their views are being formed by terrific condemnation of this treaty of the admirals who must actually use the inferior navy the treaty leaves us.

"Mr. Hoover ought not to tolerate this business any further. A Roosevelt or a Wilson would have come down like a ton of bricks upon this outrageous insubordination."

We hazard the opinion that the ton of bricks, when it falls, is going to land not on the patriotic admirals, but on the Herbert Hoover administration at Washington.

It is a notable but perhaps natural situation that President Hoover and Secretary Stimson, both on record as League of Nations advocates, should receive their chief defense and support from a Democratic newspaper committed to Wilson's League of Nations policy.

With This Ring

A 100,000-POUND RING.

A fly walking on a picture cannot see the whole picture. But he can see a little part of it.

The modern human being living on our great picture of life called "Industrial Progress" cannot see the whole picture, but he can see and understand one part of it at a time.

Therefore, this "master ring" 45 feet in diameter, weighing 100,000 pounds, enables us to get an idea of United States industrial methods such as we could not get otherwise.

This ring is a small part of a giant piece of machinery manufactured by the General Electric Company of Schenectady in connection with the power plant of the New York Light and Power Company at Spier Falls.

The General Electric Company, which recently made the greatest hydro-electric engine ever built for Russia and the most powerful steam turbine ever built for Henry Ford, specializes in giant machinery, as it well may, being a giant of industry itself.

The interesting thing about modern industry is the fact that its production of metal, power, great machines, its billions of "turnover," and its millions of profit, all huge, are the products of something that has no size nor shape, no weight—THOUGHT IN THE HUMAN MIND.

Ask Mr. Young, chairman of the board, or Mr. Swope, president of General Electric, which they would rather lose, all their BUILDINGS and MACHINERY at Schenectady or the thinking power in the brains of a few of their best men, engineers and scientists. They will reply: "Take the buildings and the machinery. We can rebuild THEM. We never can rebuild, never can be sure of finding again, a perfectly developed, scientific brain."

American Mothers in Europe, Decoration Day

This picture has a deep, sad meaning for this country. It shows American mothers, visiting the graves of their sons, in a foreign country, across the ocean.

Upon each grave stands a white cross and of those white crosses, there are many acres, TOO MANY ACRES.

Each Gold Star Mother seeks out the place where her son lies, to think of him, to pray for him, to return bereaved.

Only a mother knows the feelings of these American women, as they reach the cross above a son's grave.

As they stand, weeping, or kneel upon the ground, each sees that son in all the periods of his life.

They see him as a helpless infant, a little boy, going to school, a youth bearing their fondest hopes, and returning the affection of years of care.

Each mother must come home, leaving there her son, killed in a quarrel that America did not start, in a war that was not our war.

Many American mothers will make that sad pilgrimage, too many.

This country wants no traitorous nonsense about "guaranteeing the peace of Europe" which would mean killing the sons of other American mothers in the quarrels of foreigners.

The people do not want any foreign-concocted naval pact transferring control of our national defense to the hands of foreign statesmen.

We want no League of Nations or League Court to tell us what we shall do with our men or our money or how many American mothers shall cross the oceans to see their sons' graves, after the next war.

This nation is big enough, powerful enough, rich enough to attend to its own business, protect its own rights, regulate its own defenses.

MATTER AND ENERGY

By Archibald Henderson

Unity! That is the watchword of the new science. The researches of the past two decades all point unmistakably to some sort of universal junction and unification of the forces of nature. Many inconsistencies and discrepancies have yet to be explained; many gaps in the argument remain yet to be filled in. But we are beginning to realize matter and energy, for example, are two distinct entities, the one inert, the other dynamic, but that they are united in some close and indissoluble bond.

The various phenomena associated with matter, in earlier days of science, were regarded as emanations or properties or qualities of matter. Gravity used to be regarded as a property of matter, but Einstein has given a new slant to the problem by discovering that gravitation is a property of space-time.

Energy used to be regarded, likewise, as a property of matter, but the newer scientific theories have changed all that. The emphasis has been taken off matter and placed upon energy. It is energy which is the active partner in the firm. A gram of matter may disappear, but in doing so it gives rise to an amount of ergs represented by the number nine followed by 20 ciphers!

In the old days there were two separate laws, regarded as solid and stable as the Rock of Gibraltar. These were the laws of the conservation of matter and of the conservation of energy. Today, under the modern unifying principle, we have the single law of the conservation of matter-energy.

It is virtually impossible to verify the new principle, because of the smallness of the quantities involved, in the laboratory, or the largeness of the quantities involved in the inter-stellar spaces, thus taking the chemical reaction known as that of the union of oxygen and hydrogen. In the formation of 18 grams of water the decrease in mass would be only about one part in six billion. In the case of the sun, on the other hand, the total energy radiated by seconds by the sun, if converted into mass, gives the enormous figure of four million tons per second.

Thus radiation is responsible for a diminution in the mass of the sun and all the other stars at a truly terrific rate of speed. Yet, relatively speaking, this diminution is slow, since, in the case of the sun, it is likely to continue for some ten million years!

Among the most impressive and convincing of modern physical experiments are those dealing with the gravitational and inertial properties of matter. They were conducted, with extraordinary precision, by Eoetvaer, by means of a torsion. He demonstrated the proportionality of weight and inertia. For most substances he showed that weight and inertia were proportional to an accuracy of one part in two hundred million. Thus equal weights have equal inertias, and likewise exhibit the same acceleration under the influence of gravity.

As Heyl concludes, in his "New Frontiers of Physics," evidence of this nature shows us that energy must be regarded as possessing both of the characteristic attributes of matter, and that matter may be converted into energy with a definite numerical relation between them.

Masquerade

Little can we know
From their wonted outward phase
Of the heart below.

Though their days may lack repose,
Cares may vex the mind,
Still the soul's deep current flows
Undisturbed and kind.

Gruffness sometimes serves to hide
Tenderness and love;
Noblest virtues may abide
With grim glance above.

Earth, indeed, a stage;
Youthful spirits don white hair,
Wear the garb of age.

Be not likely led astray
By a masking mood;
Seek, in all along your way,
Hidden stores of good!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Because you wish to be known as a man of strong opinions, not easily swerved, do you refuse to change your opinions even after you find that you are mistaken in them?

You say you dislike the wobbly, vascillating person. You admire the man who is unafraid to stand back of his ideas. You say you admire the latter, but how do you feel toward him if he differs from you in your opinions?

He is wrong and you are right, is the way you feel about it?

You may be a logical thinker, may have studied extensively, may have good and original ideas, but why should you think your conceptions better founded than those of other students and thinkers?

You are too opinionated to learn and consequently you are avoided in conversation.

None want to engage in debate with you because it would seem a waste of time, since you only respect your own ideas.

You don't stop to consider the other fellow's viewpoint.

Hence you miss many an opportunity to add to your knowledge.

And you make yourself unpopular with those who have a right to think their ideas are as good as yours.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 31.—Parties for children in New York are reaching amazing pinnacles of splendor. Several shops on Park and Madison avenues specialize in arranging these affairs, furnishing decorations and games. No detail is overlooked to make them original.

The shops furnish unusual invitations, suggest and provide menus, the favors and entertainers. Those who desire may secure hand-painted invitations, highly appropriate, costing as high as $3 each. These have a likeness in water color of favored guests.

A crew of decorators will transform the home or lawn into a fitting background for any childish revel, carrying out the entertainment motif even to uniformed servants. Among entertainers are clowns, magicians, trick donkeys, performing cats, parrots and dogs.

The performers charge from $10 to $40 for their acts and the average cost of the entire party ranges from $10 to $25 a head. This includes a gift for each child and the prizes in game contests and surprise grab bags. The most expensive children's party of the year totaled $2,800.

This was given at a Long Island estate for 50 poor little rich. It was a complete circus under a fair-sized tent, with a sawdust ring, acrobats, clowns, trapezists and, to complete the illusion, John Ringling, a friend, sent one of his performing elephants.

As an onlooker at a children's party recently the neat distinct impression was the unusual politeness among young moderns. There was not a fight, a smacking or even a single quarrel, although none was more than 7. They gave no impression of being little Rollos either.

My memory of children's parties was of hair pullings and face scratching and almost everyone going home a little giddy from ice cream, cake and candy to have cod liver oil poured down thankless gullets. They used to tell of one boy whose mother inquired: "And what did my little man do at the party?" The wan youngster replied proudly: "I frowed up."

Ed Wynn's invention this year is a mouse trap. There is no way mice can get into it, and thus all become discouraged and go to another house.

Corset shops are opening all over town. The new corset is of rubberized material and offers none of the atrocities of other years. New style dresses demand a corset and the corset—reminiful of the French proverb: "The more it changes, the more it is the same thing"—is back to original proportions. The most expensive corset ever worn was owned by Lillian Russell, costing nearly $4,000.

Lillian Russell, incidentally, did not smoke cigarets, but did puff little cigars about the size of a cigaret. They were especially made in Havana. She smoked only two a day, after luncheon and dinner, and did not inhale.

The well-dressed lady these days must look hungry and gaunt. In the style salons they call it "the gone look." Husbands achieve the same effect after paying the bills.

A man-about-town writes he frequently drops into the sedate Hotel Chatham, sinks into a cushioned chair and unfolds a copy of the Springfield Republican. "You have no idea how respectable it makes you feel after a night out," he says.

In moments of economical prudence I place stray rubber bands around the knob of a desk drawer. Today an uninvited visitor sat talking to me and absent-mindedly removed them one by one to drop in a waste basket. He doesn't know it, but he came very near not being among us any more.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Why do we take chances? There's some mystery there. We're all cowardly. We all dread death. Yet we so carelessly risk death and so soon grow callous to danger.

Ever watch men loading ships? There's an example. One sideswipe of that great boom sweeping overhead would smash them all to jelly—but they hardly bother to duck! They laugh and loaf and stage crap games under the very swinging shadow of death. Motorcycle races—there's another example. Nothing unusually brave or philosophical about men who race motorcycles. They dread death as much as other men. Yet, even after they've seen a comrade ravelled to bloody shreds, back they come to that roaring track where death crouches on every curve. And what youngster doesn't want to fly? Yet daily they fall.

Amazing, isn't it? Knocks that theory of self-preservation to bits. We love life and do more with it than any other animals. All of us fear death. Few of us have any definite, sustaining faith in immortality. Most of us believe that death means the end of everything. And yet, we are more careless of our lives, more contemptuous of danger, than any other [illegible].

What's the answer? Perhaps Clement Dyson found it. Clement Dyson is the hero of that beautiful and moving book, "The Ship of Truth," by Lettice Cooper. It is not only the story of Clement and his troubled soul. It is the story of all of us, with our common hunger and bewilderment. Clement Dyson wanted to find God and an understanding of life. He could find neither in his church. So he left the church and went out on a very troubled trail. And there, through blundering and suffering, work and humiliation, he found his God and an answer to some of his questions.

He too had asked that question—"Why do men take risks?" He had asked it because he wanted, so terribly, to feel that life was worth while and that it went somewhere, instead of breaking off in darkness. Yet, working in the quarry, he saw those men taking frightful risks with the falling stone and actually grumbling because they were forced to seek shelter.

And suddenly it came to Clement that it wasn't so much an indifference to danger "as a sort of unconscious belief that whatever happened wouldn't happen to them . . . as though each one said, 'I'm all right. Nothing can make an end of me—what a fuss!'"

Is that, perhaps, the answer to a great many things?

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

In all eggs of birds and reptiles the true ovum is the yolky part; this is a cell packed so full of the stored food we call yolk that practically no living protoplasm remains save for a thin film on the surface, and a concentration in the form of a delicate cap at one pole.

The white and the shell are not part of the true egg-cell, but merely its wrappings. In the extinct aepyornis of Madagascar this one bloated cell attained a volume of about a gallon!

H. G. Wells

In shape, some eggs depart from the spherical, but usually stop short at oval. Comparatively few, like the eggs of mosquitoes and cockroaches and a number of other insects, are elongated or flattened.

The sperm is much more variable in appearance than the egg. It is nearly always active and seeks restlessly for the waiting ovum.

Though the actively swimming sperms of all many-celled animals from polyps to men, are built on the same plan, with single propelling whip-lash behind, a condensed nucleus forming the bulk of the "head," a middle-piece between the two to carry the centrosome, and a cap covering the front of the head, and probably containing the substance needed to galvanize the egg into development, yet this plan is much varied in its details.

The head may be rounded, as in the sperm of bats or starfish, or flattened symmetrically as in man, or flat and set slantwise as in squirrels; it may be a long, thin cylinder as in tortoise, toad and spider, a mere ball like that of amphioxus, or a cork-screw as in finches.

The middle piece may be tiny, or longer than all the rest of the sperm put together. The tail may be a simple whip-lash, long or short, or be equipped with a vibrating fin-membrane of transparent protoplasm.

The only exceptions to this general plan are found among flatworms, some of which have sperms with two whiptails instead of one.

In plants, however, the single-tailed sperm seems never to occur. Those of many lower plants, including mosses, have two flagella, and in some sea-weeds these two-lashed sperms are not to be distinguished in appearance from free-living single-celled flagellates.

Fern-sperms have usually a corkscrew nucleus, and a great many flagella instead of only two; often they carry with them tha part of the general protoplasm which is not needed for production of head and whiplashes, onl to cast it from them before entering the egg.

Animal sperms have gone a step beyond this, for they shed all the unwanted protoplasm before embarking on independent life.

Both among animals and plants however, are to be found sperms which have abandoned their primitive motility. The gamete-nuclei of the flowering plants, which are merely floated along the pollen-tube into the egg, are the most familiar examples; they have abandoned both motility and independence.

But all the higher Crustacea have unmotile though independent sperms, strange stiff structures which look like tripods or calthrops or catherine wheels. In some water-fleas the sperms cannot swim but crowl like amoebae. The round-worms have almost motionless sperms, mere lumps of protoplasm, and mite-sperms and millipede-sperms have also lost the power of swimming.

Thus these gametes present themselves in various forms, but always doing the same things, alternating with zygotes, begotten of zygotes and uniting to form zygotes again.

We cannot better summarise the position than by quoting Prof. Punnett's little book on Mendelism, in which he says:

"People generally look upon the human species as having two kinds of individuals, males and females, and it is for them that the sociologists and legislators frame their schemes.

"This, however, is but an imperfect view to take of ourselves. In reality we are of four kinds, male zygotes and female zygotes, large gametes and small gametes, and heredity is the link that binds us together. If our lives were like those of the star-fish or the sea-urchin, we should probably have realized this sooner.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

A kid that was visiting at her classmate's house says, "Oh, it's raining!"

"I don't think she would, Mrs. Friend," says the kid. "I think she'd just get out of it by having Betty stay to dinner and wait till the rain was all stopped."
